Biggs,Transportation Development Centre (Canada),1991 This report documents the results of a study into the risks associated with degraded performance during rejected and continued take off from wet and contaminated runways A comprehensive review of world wide accident and incident data was undertaken to identify the severity of the problem and the factors involved Runway condition characteristics the correlation of runway friction test devices with the friction experienced by aeroplanes and take off performance estimation on wet and contaminated runways were reviewed Performance estimates were examined on the basis of the ratio of contaminated vs dry friction A method is outlined for classifying runway conditions based upon ICAO SARPS FAA NASA trials and the practices of leading countries and airlines The frequency of wet and contaminated runways in Canada the likelihood of critical events on the take off run and the take off weight distribution were determined These frequency and probability distributions and runway weather and aircraft performance data were used in a probabilistic analysis of the risk of take off accidents A number of counter measures were examined including the JAR acceptable means of compliance for wet and contaminated runways JAR Professional Pilot Studies Phil Croucher,2004-03-01 Ground study material for European pilot s written exams aeroplanes helicopter The Limits of Expertise R. Key Dismukes,Benjamin A. Berman,Loukia Loukopoulos,2017-03-02 Why would highly skilled well trained pilots make errors that lead to accidents when they had safely completed many thousands of previous flights The majority of all aviation accidents are attributed primarily to human error but this is often misinterpreted as evidence of lack of skill vigilance or conscientiousness of the pilots The Limits of Expertise is a fresh look at the causes of pilot error and aviation accidents arguing that accidents can be understood only in the context of how the overall aviation system operates The authors analyzed in great depth the 19 major U S airline accidents from 1991 2000 in which the National Transportation Safety Board NTSB found crew error to be a causal factor Each accident is reviewed in a separate chapter that examines events and crew actions and explores the cognitive processes in play at each step The approach is guided by extensive evidence from cognitive psychology that human skill and error are opposite sides of the same coin The book examines the ways in which competing task demands ambiguity and organizational pressures interact with cognitive processes to make all experts vulnerable to characteristic forms of error The final chapter identifies themes cutting across the accidents discusses the role of chance criticizes simplistic concepts of causality of accidents and suggests ways to reduce vulnerability to these catastrophes The authors complementary experience allowed a unique approach to the study accident investigation with the NTSB cognitive psychology research both in the lab and in the field enormous first hand experience of piloting and application of aviation psychology in both civil and military operations This combination allowed the authors to examine and explain the domain specific aspects of aviation operations and to extend advances in basic research in cognition to complex issues of human performance in the real world Although The Limits of Expertise is directed to aviation operations the implications are clear for understanding the decision processes skilled performance and errors of professionals in many domains including medicine Flight International ,2000 91-0744 - 91-0769 ,1991 Aviation Week & Space Technology ,1984 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1978 Aloha Airlines B737-200 ETOPS (Extended-range Twin-engine Operational Performance Standards) Training Manual Aloha Airlines, Inc, Syllabus shows this to be a 3 day course covering dispatch flight planning in flight performance emergency equipment training basic navigation airport familiarization reduced vertical separation minimum RVSM NAVSTAR global positioning system presentation Pacific weather computer flight plane in flight monitoring line operations emergency abnormal procedures GNSS HT 9000 table top training and a written exam Mergent Company Archives Manual ,2006 Safety Recommendation , Jane's All the World's Aircraft ,1998 Flight and the Aircraft Engineer ,1995 Canadian Aeronautics and Space Journal ,1985 Interavia ,1984 On the Design of Flight-deck Procedures Asaf Degani,1994
