Carolina stoneware from its beginnings in colonial times and its heyday in the 1850s through the post Civil War period and the first half of the twentieth century Folklorist Cinda K Baldwin examines not only many traditional pottery forms but also the methods by which they were thrown glazed decorated and fired Among the topics on which Baldwin focuses are the contributions of slaves and freed blacks to the pottery industry including the remarkable work of the potter named Dave who marked his wares with brief verse inscriptions including this one found on a large food storage container Great Noble Jar hold sheep goat and bear The book is illustrated with nearly two hundred photographs including fifteen color plates maps and drawings and includes an index of South Carolina potters Great and Noble Jar Cinda K. Baldwin,2014-04 In Great and Noble Jar Cinda K Baldwin offers the first authoritative study of South Carolina stoneware and traces the ways in which a rich regional tradition emerged from a unique cultural source As Baldwin notes South Carolina s old legislative district of Edgefield an area now comprising Edgefield Aiken and Greenwood counties has long been recognized as the place of origin for an alkaline glazing process that came to characterize pottery produced throughout the lower South The process developed during the early nineteenth century after the poisonous properties of lead glazed stoneware became known Abner Landrum a newspaper editor and scientific farmer was probably the first to combine locally available materials with Chinese glaze formulas to produce this new and safer alkaline glazed stoneware The plantation operations of the Edgefield District Baldwin shows created a demand for large scale food storage and preservation often in containers of huge capacity In response to this need an extensive system of family owned stoneware factories emerged Reflecting the contributions of the many slaves and freed blacks who worked in the industry the objects produced in these factories often incorporated African designs and techniques Particularly notable were the grotesques or voodoo jugs wheel thrown vessels onto which the slave potters applied facial features in molded clay Baldwin pays special attention to the remarkable work of a slave potter named Dave who marked his wares with brief verse inscriptions including this one found on a large food storage container Great Noble Jar hold sheep goat and bear Tracing the tradition s history through the post Civil War period and the first half of the twentieth century Baldwin also examines South Carolina pottery outside the Edgefield District and analyzes a variety of decorative treatments and forms She concludes with a consideration of the decline and renewal of the southern folk pottery tradition The book is illustrated with nearly two hundred photographs including fifteen color plates maps and drawings Complementing earlier studies that focused on Georgia and North Carolina pottery Great and Noble Jar is a significant contribution to the understanding of this heritage Raised in Clay Nancy Sweezy,1994 Raised in Clay is a remarkable portrait of pottery making in the one of the oldest and richest craft traditions in America Focusing on more than thirty potters in North Carolina Georgia Alabama Texas Mississippi and Kentucky Nancy Sweezy tells how The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth-century Illinois John A.
