Beyond Postprocess and Postmodernism Theresa Jarnagi Enos,Keith D. Miller,Jill McCracken,2003-01-30 Annotation Volume illuminates many of the tensions present in the field of rhetoric and composition studies explaining the scope and role of rhetoric in contemporary scholarship For scholars and other individuals interested in rhetoric and composition studies

P Beyond Postprocess Sidney I. Dobrin,J.A. Rice,Michael Vastola,2011-06-30 Beyond Postprocess offers a vigorous provocative discussion of postprocess theory in its contemporary profile Fueled by something like a fundamental refusal to see writing as self evident reducible and easily explicable the contributors rethink postprocess suggesting that there is no easily defined moment or method that could be called postprocess Instead each contribution to this collection provides a unique and important example of what work beyond postprocess could be Since postprocess theory in writing studies first challenged traditional conceptions of writing and the subject who writes developments there have continued to push theorists of writing in a number of promising theoretical directions Spaces for writing have arisen that radically alter ideological notions of space rational thinking intellectual property and politics and epistemologies and new media digital and visual rhetorics have increasingly complicated the scene as well Contributors to Beyond Postprocess reconsider writing and writing studies through posthumanism ecology new media materiality multimodal and digital writing institutional critique and postpedagogy Through the lively and provocative character of these essays Beyond Postprocess aims to provide a critical site for nothing less than the broad reevaluation of what it means to study writing today Its polyvocal considerations and conclusions invest the volume with a unique potential to describe not what that field of study should be but what it has the capacity to create The central purpose of Beyond Postprocess is to unleash this creative potential

Post-process Theory

Thomas Kent,1999 Breaking with the still dominant process tradition in composition studies post process theory or at least the different incarnations of post process theory discussed by the contributors represented in this collection of original essays endorses the fundamental idea that no codifiable or generalizable writing process exists or could exist Post process theorists hold that the practice of writing cannot be captured by a generalized process or a big theory Most post process theorists hold three assumptions about the act of writing writing is public writing is interpretive and writing is situated The first assumption is the commonsensical claim that writing constitutes a public interchange By interpretive act post process theorists generally mean something as broad as making sense of and not exclusively the ability to move from one code to another To interpret means more than merely to paraphrase it means to enter into a relationship of understanding with other language users And finally because writing is a public act that requires interpretive interaction with others writers always write from some position or some place Writers are never nowhere they are situated Leading theorists and widely published scholars in the field contributors are Nancy Blyler John Clifford Barbara Couture Nancy C DeJoy Sidney I Dobrin Elizabeth Ervin Helen Ewald David Foster Debra Journet Thomas Kent Gary A Olson Joseph Petraglia George Pullman David Russell and John Schilb What is the New Rhetoric? Susan E. Thomas, 2009-03-26 The Age of Information has spawned a critical focus on human communication in a multimedia world particularly on theories and practices of writing. With the worldwide web impacting increasingly on academic and business communication the need has never been greater for advanced study in writing communication and critical thinking across all genres sectors and cultures. In recent decades the definitions of new rhetoric have expanded to encompass a variety of theories and movements raising the question of how rhetoric is understood and employed in the twenty first century. The essays collected here represent variations on these themes with each attempting to answer the title's deliberately provocative question addressing particularly How the classical art of rhetoric is still relevant today. How it is directly related to modern technologies and the new modes of communication they have generated. How rhetorical practice is informing research methodologies and teaching and learning practices in the contemporary academy.

Vernacular Eloquence Peter Elbow, 2012-01-13 Since the publication of his groundbreaking books Writing Without Teachers and Writing with Power Peter Elbow has revolutionized how people think about writing. Now in Vernacular Eloquence he makes a vital new contribution to both practice and theory. The core idea is simple we can enlist virtues from the language activity most people find easiest speaking for the language activity most people find hardest writing. Speech with its spontaneity naturalness of expression and fluidity of thought has many overlooked linguistic and rhetorical merits. Through several easy to employ techniques writers can marshal this wisdom of the tongue to produce stronger clearer more natural writing. This simple idea it turns out has deep repercussions. Our culture of literacy Elbow argues functions as though it were a plot against the spoken voice the human body vernacular language and those without privilege making it harder than necessary to write with comfort or power. Giving speech a central role in writing overturns many empty preconceptions. It causes readers to think critically about the relationship between speech writing and our notion of literacy. Developing the political implications behind Elbow's previous books Vernacular Eloquence makes a compelling case that strengthening writing and democratizing it go hand in hand.

Microhistories of Composition Bruce McComiskey, 2016-04-01 Writing studies has been dominated throughout its history by grand narratives of the discipline but in this volume Bruce McComiskey begins to explore microhistory as a way to understand enrich and complicate how the field relates to its past. Microhistory investigates the dialectical interaction of social history and cultural history enabling historians to examine uncommon sites objects and agents of historical significance overlooked by social history and restricted to local effects by cultural history. This approach to historical scholarship is ideally suited for exploring the complexities of a discipline like composition. Through an introduction and eleven chapters McComiskey and his contributors including major figures in the historical research of writing studies such as Louise Wetherbee Phelps Kelly Ritter and Neal Lerner develop focused narratives of particular significant moments or themes in disciplinary history. They introduce microhistorical methodologies and illustrate their application and value for composition historians contributing to the complexity and adding momentum to the emerging trend within writing studies toward a richer reading of the field's past and future. Scholars and historians of both composition and rhetoric will appreciate the fresh perspectives on institutional and disciplinary histories and larger issues of rhetorical agency and engagement enacted in writing classrooms that are found in Microhistories of Composition. Other contributors include Cheryl E. Ball, Suzanne Bordelon, Jacob Craig, Matt Davis, Douglas Eyman, Brian Gogan, David Gold, Christine Martorana, Bruce McComiskey, Josh Mehler, Annie S. Mendenhall, Kendra Mitchell, Antony N. Ricks, David Stock, Kathleen Blake Yancey, Bret Zawilski, and James T. Zebroski. The Centrality of Style Mike Duncan, Star Medzerian, Vanguri, 2013-04-07. In The Centrality of Style, editors Mike Duncan and Star Medzerian Vanguri argue that style is a central concern of composition studies even as they demonstrate that some of the most compelling work in the area has emerged from the margins of the field. Selected Essays of Jim W. Corder Jim Wayne Corder, 2004. James Corder way ahead of his time in pursuing expressivism and the personal in composition. This book is a collection of essays by Corder that span his teaching career roughly 1976 to 1997. It includes three previously unpublished pieces. ADE Bulletin Association of Departments of English, 2003. Research Writing Revisited Pavel Zemliansky, Wendy Bishop, 2004. The time has come to brush the dust off research writing pedagogy and reimagine it into the twenty first century classroom with fresh approaches that breathe life into both the papers themselves and the instruction that supports them. Feeling Our Way Wendy Bishop, Deborah Coxwell Teague, 2004-03. This provocative and sometimes humorous collection of essays written by college writing teachers for college writing teachers explores seldom discussed issues to help TAs develop confidence in overcoming classroom challenges. Teachers both seasoned and new to the profession create a dialogue by sharing their rich and varied experiences and responses to classroom and department situations. Each Part presents 4 to 7 short essays by Adjuncts and TAs focusing on their experiences and lessons learned. At the end of each Part more experienced teachers respond to the ideas generated in the preceding essays and add their own advice, concerns, and solutions. Part 1 Approaching the Classroom centers on entering a new writing program and succeeding as a foreign born writing teacher. Part 2 Inside Out focuses on gaining confidence as a teacher and managing sexual politics and power struggles in the classroom. Part 3 Beyond the Classroom helps readers question the teaching profession and offers advice on surviving department politics. An Appendix provides a useful listing of composition texts that offer further helpful advice. Library & Information Science Abstracts, 2004. Composing Other Spaces Douglas Reichert Powell, John Paul Tassoni, 2009. From publisher's description: These essays ask how place and space shape the conflicts, challenges, and opportunities of writing instruction. What new tactics for writing and the teaching of writing are required to adequately account for and engage with the complexities of composition's spaces and places? What We Are Becoming Greg Giberson, Thomas A. Moriarty, 2010. Greg Giberson and Tom Moriarty have collected a rich volume that offers a state of the field look at the question of the undergraduate writing major, a vital issue for compositionists as the discipline continues to evolve. What We Are Becoming provides an indispensable resource for departments and WPAs who are building undergraduate majors Contributors to the volume address a range of vital questions for undergraduate programs including such issues as the competition for majors within departments the job market for undergraduates varying focuses and curricula of such majors and the formation of them in departments separate from English Other chapters discuss the importance of flexibility consider arguments for a rhetorical or civic discourse core for the writing major address the relationship between rhetoric and composition majors and review the role of multiliteracies in the major The field of composition has not come to a consensus on the shape content or focus of the undergraduate major But as individual programs develop and refine their curricula one thing has become clear we must think about them in ways that go beyond our particular circumstances theorize them in ways that secure their place on our campuses and in our discipline for years to come What We Are Becoming is an effort to do just that
