Alpers,2001 Cultural Memory Anne Fuchs,2003 Twenty two essays from academics working primarily in Ireland examine the construction of cultural memory in examples of European discourse from the 17th century to the present The volume is structured around five main themes memory as counter history narrative and remembering locating memory remembering and renewal and remembering as trauma International Journal of Comic Art ,2005 Memory and Community in Medieval Southern Italy Charles Hilken,2008 This study of Santa Maria del Gualdo Mazzocca a Benedictine priory and then abbey directly dependent upon the papacy offers a remarkable glimpse into the nature of monastic life in the middle ages A Discussion of the Relationship Between the Memory of the Experience of "nature" in the Autobiographical Texts of Rousseau and the Conceptualisation of "nature" in His Other Works F. Diana Gordon,1997 Politics, Memory and Public Opinion Sven Saaler,2005 This volume explores the political and social backgrounds of the ongoing history textbook controversy in Japan In chapter 1 the resurgence since the 1990s of the conservative interpretation of history known as historical revisionism which aims to support history education in schools that serves the strengthening of national pride is identified as the major reason for the renewed debate The remainder of the chapter traces the diverse connections of historical revisionism with Japanese domestic politics Chapter 2 demonstrates that as a consequence of this strong connection between revisionism and politics the views of Japan's recent history underlying the culture of memory as it is manifested in the public sphere in memorials museums and ceremonies are increasingly similar to those advocated by historical revisionism This is particularly true regarding the interpretation of the Asia Pacific War 1931-1945 which here is often depicted as a defensive war or as a war waged for the liberation of Asia following the affirmative view of the war urged by revisionists But however forcefully expressed these views fall short of reflecting a consensus on history in Japanese society at large In chapter 3 a number of opinion surveys inquiring into the historical consciousness of the Japanese are analyzed The results of these surveys indicate that revisionist views face an uphill battle in Japanese society and rather have to be considered a minority view at present The explosive character of the history textbook controversy above all reflects the discrepancy between the historical views of the political class and those promoted in the public sphere on the one hand and those predominant in the wider society on the other The anticipated next round of the history textbook debate in the 60th anniversary year of the end of the war will not be adequately understood without sufficient knowledge of the backgrounds to the debate and the issues related to it
