Families and Religion Christel Gärtner,Linda Hennig,Olaf Müller,2025-03-20 This comparative study examines the transmission of religion in families in Germany, Italy, Hungary, Finland and Canada. The authors rely on the widely shared argument that religious change can primarily be understood as an intergenerational process. Based on a mixed methods design the book investigates the question of how, when, exactly and under what conditions the following generations become less religious than the previous ones. From the perspective of familial and historical generations the authors examine the significance of religious socialization for the transmission of non-religious worldviews, affiliation, practice and identity. According to a central finding religious change takes place primarily in the phase of adolescence against the background of the respective social context.
