Activating The Unemployed Activating The Unemployed:

Frontline Delivery of Welfare-to-Work Policies in Europe Rik van Berkel, Dorte Caswell, Peter Kupka, Flemming Larsen, 2017-06-27 Welfare to work or activation policies refer to programmes aimed at promoting the employability labour market and social participation of benefit recipients of working age Frontline workers delivering these policies are conceived of as policy implementers as policy makers and as actors mediating politics in an arena where conflicting interests are at stake Frontline work plays a crucial role in determining what welfare to work practically means and how it affects the lives of the people it targets Yet few books have deliberately focused on comparing what happens when frontline workers some of whom are professional social workers meet clients Pioneering the provision of scholarly reflections on both theoretical and policy relevance of studying frontline practices of delivering activation internationally renowned researchers present the first comparative analysis of how activation policies are actually delivered by frontline staff in selected EU countries and in the United States In trying to understand and interpret frontline practices in activation each contribution provides insights into what activation in practice looks like what services are provided and how they are enacted This involves examining processes of client selection monitoring sanctioning and motivating as well as the role of external service providers This book is an important acquisition for scholars and researchers of social policy public administration public management social work and policy implementation Bringing the Jobless into Work? Werner Eichhorst, Otto Kaufmann, Regina Konle-Seidl, 2008-09-09 Over the last decade many industrialized countries shifted from passive unemployment and welfare benefit regimes and traditional active labor market and social policies to activation strategies by making benefit receipt conditional upon accepting job offers or participation in active labor market schemes But countries differ with regard to the design of activation instruments and their implementation the definition of target groups and the effects of activation in the national labor market setting This volume provides an up to date overview of activation strategies in unemployment benefit systems and social assistance in selected European countries and the US A particular focus lies on the development of activation schemes governance and implementation as well as on the outcomes of activation in terms of labor market and social integration The volume is the first to address these issues both from a socio economic and a legal perspective Activating the Unemployed, 2011 Explores current employment activation practices and interrelated factors in the Western Balkans including Kosovo and Turkey and comes up with policy options for more coherent activation policies with regard to unemployed people registered unemployed or welfare benefit recipients who are able to work directed towards increasing their capabilities and motivation to participate in active labour market measures and to search actively for a job

Activating the Unemployed Neil Gilbert, Rebecca A. Van Voorhis, The last decade has witnessed a conspicuous alteration in policies protecting unemployed people in modern welfare states Social policies are increasingly designed to encourage economic independence Policy makers have introduced a wide range of reforms linking disability unemployment and welfare programs cash benefits to work oriented measures Welfare policies are being framed by a new emphasis on recipients obligations emphasizing that the receipt of benefits creates a responsibility to take action towards becoming self reliant The objective is to minimize the duration of dependence or improve the well being of family or community Activating the Unemployed addresses this growing interest in work oriented measures This represents a shift in the dominant discourse on social welfare from focus on the citizen s rights to social benefits to emphasis on their responsibilities to work and lead an active life In this volume a distinguished array of international contributors provide cross cultural perspectives to analyze recent diverse policy initiatives to activate the unemployed in nine countries Britain France Italy the Netherlands New Zealand Norway Sweden Switzerland and the United States Each provides a systematic account of the background design implementation and results of employment oriented measures Collectively they permit comparison of organized responses to common problems in the areas of public assistance welfare unemployment and disability among others Further chapters seek to broaden perspectives on policy options the issues raised and lessons learned in the course of activating the unemployed This thorough and insightful account addresses significant contemporary issues and concerns about welfare social security and unemployment It will aid policy makers professionals and scholars in assessing current trends in welfare in various countries throughout the world Neil Gilbert is Chernin Professor of Social Services and Social Welfare at the University of California Berkeley and Director of the Center for Comparative Study of Family Welfare and Poverty Research Dr Gilbert served as a Senior Research Fellow for the United Nations Research Institute for Social Development in Geneva and was twice awarded Fulbright Fellowships to study European social policy His numerous publications include 22 books and 100 articles that have appeared in the Wall Street Journal The Public Interest Society Commentary and other leading academic journals Rebecca Van Voorhis is Assistant Professor in the Department of Sociology and Social Work at the State University of California Hayward

The Moral Economy of Activation Magnus Paulsen Hansen, 2019-09-11 Activation policies which promote and enforce labour market participation continue to proliferate in Europe and constitute the reform blueprint from centre left to centre right as well as for most international organizations Through an in depth study of four major reforms in Denmark and France this book maps how co existing ideas are mobilised to justify criticise and reach activation compromises and how their morality sediments into the instruments governing the unemployed By rethinking the role of ideas and morality in policy changes this book illustrates how the moral economy of activation leads to a permanent behaviourist testing of the unemployed in public debate as well as in local jobcentres

The Politics of Unemployment in Europe Marco Giugni, 2016-03-03 This book offers a state of the art discussion of the political issues surrounding unemployment in Europe Its unique combination offers both a policy and institutional perspective whilst studying the viewpoint of individual civil society members engaging in collective action on the issue of joblessness It is the result of Marco Giugni s three year cross national comparative research project financed by the European Commission united with hand picked contributions from invited experts Throughout his study he focuses on how the EU approaches national unemployment the main national differences in talk about unemployment and unemployment policy and how the representatives of the unemployed produce and coordinate demands in relation to unemployment policy This book contains a number of genuinely cross national chapters along with sections on specific national cases namely the UK Ireland Germany Switzerland Belgium and Sweden

Activating the Unemployed Self Matilda Langley,2000 Rescaling Social Policies Yuri Kazepov,2010 This distinctive book highlights the comparative transversal and national issues of multi level governance in social welfare policies The author reports on three particular policy areas social assistance and local policies against poverty activation and labour market policies and care for the elderly whilst looking at the changes that have taken place over the past few years and their resulting effects It will be a key text for those concerned with social policy and welfare Activation Policies for the Unemployed, the Right to Work and the Duty to Work Elise Dermine,Daniel Dumont,2014-12-16 Since the 1990s and the 2000s Western social protection systems have experienced a turn towards activation This turn consists of the multiplication of measures aimed at bringing those who are unemployed closer to participation in the labour market These measures often induce a strengthening of the conditions that must be met in order to receive social benefits ItBR It is in this well known context that the authors gathered in this book decided to take a closer look at the relationship between activation policies for the unemployed and the right and the duty to work If activation measures are likely to increase transitions towards the labour market we can also make the assumption that they may particularly when they are marked with the seal of coercion hinder or dramatically reduce the right to freely chosen work In such circumstances the realisation of the right to work which is often stated to be the aim of those who promote activation tends in practice to be reduced to an increasing pressure being exerted on the unemployed In this case isn't it actually the duty to work that is particularly reinforced ItBR After an historical and philosophical perspective on the issue this assumption is confronted with the developments observed in the United States and in France and then with the guidelines laid down in international human rights instruments What follows is a discussion of two alternatives to the dominant activation model the basic income guarantee and the employment guarantee

The Role of Unemployment in Triggering Internal Labor Migration George McCarthy,1992 The Financing of Vocational Education and Training in Denmark Martin Eggert Hansen,1999 Provides information on the legislative provisions and funding of initial and continuing vocational training training for the unemployed and combined training programmes involving job rotation and educational leave Covers trends from 1985 to 1996 Unemployment and Activation Policies in Europe and the US Henning Jørgensen,Michaela Schulze,2024-11-08 This insightful book presents a detailed analysis of the activation policies utilized by governments across Europe and the US Editors Henning Jørgensen and Michaela Schulze bring together a wealth of experts to collate key developments and understandings in global activation policies acknowledging the different ways in which countries and governments attempt to combat unemployment and the importance of subnational governance capabilities Finding Oneself in the Universe Jean Berry,1923 Are Activation Models Converging in Europe? Amparo Serrano Pascual,2004 Spanish Sociedades Laborales—Activating the Unemployed Jens Lowitzsch,Sophie Dunsch,Iraj Hashi,2017-11-19 This book investigates the potential of the Spanish Sociedades Laborales SLs as an instrument of active labour market policy for re turning the unemployed to the labour market and also the transferability of the scheme to other EU Member States Spanish Sociedades Laborales SLs mostly small and micro enterprises are a qualified form of conventional corporation majority owned by their permanent employees Unemployed persons can capitalise their unemployment benefits as a lump sum to start a new SL or to recapitalise an existing SL by joining it This makes SLs similar to start up subsidies for the unemployed an established instrument of active labour market policy across the EU The new 2015 Law on Worker Owned and Participatory Companies substantially modernised the concept of SLs 30 years after its inception The book tackles two currently widely discussed policy issues at both the EU level as well as the national level i e reactivating unemployed in the context of ALMP and encouraging employee co ownership in the context of the economic reform agenda in particular with regard to corporate governance regional economic stimuli and distributive justice Preventing Unemployment in Europe Paul Klemmer,Rüdiger Wink,2000 Some of the fundamental issues the book tackles include the extent to which the conditional framework for preventive labour market policy is undergoing change the response mechanisms to these changes which characterise national strategies and the learning processes which can be triggered through the exchange of national experiences within the EU the discussions within the book benefit from both an economic analysis of the subject matter complemented by a broader social science approach The editors have produced a resource which should prove invaluable for both policymakers and academics in the fields of labour market theory and policy BOOK JACKET Unemployment Compensation Throughout the World Wayne Vroman,Vera Brusentsev,2005 Labour Market Policies and the Public Employment Service Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development,2001 This book presents the proceedings of a conference on Labour Market Policies and the Public Employment Service Report[s], [minutes of Evidence, Indexes, Answers to Questions]. Great Britain. Royal Commission on Labour,1893 Measuring Labour Market Measures Karsten Jensen,1993
