Gear Acquisition Syndrome Jan-Peter Herbst, Jonas Menze, 2021 Gear Acquisition Syndrome also known as GAS is commonly understood as the musicians unrelenting urge to buy and own instruments and equipment as an anticipated catalyst of creative energy and bringer of happiness. For many musicians it involves the unavoidable compulsion to spend money one does not have on gear perhaps not even needed. The urge is directed by the belief that acquiring another instrument will make one a better player. This book pioneers research into the complex phenomenon named GAS from a variety of disciplines including popular music studies and music technology cultural and leisure studies consumption research sociology psychology and psychiatry. The newly created theoretical framework and empirical studies of online communities and offline music stores allow the study to consider musical social and personal motives which influence the way musicians think about and deal with equipment. As is shown GAS encompasses a variety of practices and psychological processes. In an often life long endeavour upgrading the rig is accompanied by musical learning processes in popular music.

Popular Music Studies Today Julia Merrill, 2017-03-30 This volume documents the 19th edition of the biannual International Association for the Study of Popular Music. In focus of the conference were present and future developments. For example the diminishing income potential for musicians as well as the recording industry as a whole concurrent with the decreasing relevance of popular music in youth culture. This is where computer games and social media come to the forefront. At the same time the research of popular music has emancipated itself from its initial outsider.
