EBOOK: Women in Later Life: Exploring Race and Ethnicity Haleh Afshar, Myfanwy Franks, Mary Ann Maynard, Sharon Wray, 2008-05-16 The authors argue that much of the research into later life has neglected ethnic and cultural variation. Their aim is to help us to understand what is important in older women's lives across a range of ethnic groups. They have certainly achieved this in what is a readable and detailed analysis of their findings. Highly recommended. Nursing Standard the first book to comprehensively examine the lives of older women from ethnic minorities in the UK as well as non-migrant White women. The authors draw on extensive qualitative research to provide novel ways of looking at the priorities and concerns of older women providing insights into what enhances their quality of life. Mary Maynard and colleagues have written an outstanding book. Women in Later Life will be essential reading for students on undergraduate and postgraduate courses on gender, ethnicity and later life. Sara Arber, University of Surrey, 'what is it like to be an older person and particularly an older woman'. This carefully crafted and wide-ranging book seeks to answer this question. The book reminds us that age is a social construct, one which profoundly disadvantages women. For minority ethnic women, where this book makes an important contribution to a largely unexplored territory, the situation is even more dire. The authors have opened up a huge area of policy demonstrating, despite the rhetoric of government, how badly we treat our elders. Professor Gary Craig, University of Hull, 'Britain along with other Western and industrialized countries has an ageing population. We already live in one of the demographically oldest societies to have ever existed and the population is going to get older. By 2020 it is estimated that one third of the population will be aged over 50. Furthermore, older women outnumber older men since men tend to die at a younger age than women. In the academic mainstream, relatively little is known about older women from minority ethnic communities. This groundbreaking book is based on interviews and focus groups with women of different backgrounds and ethnicities whose lives illustrate the strength of character and optimism that have often enabled them to live through hard times but who in general view later life positively. In seeking to understand the relationships between age, gender and ethnicity, the authors focus on a number of key themes including Family and networks, Health and well-being, Religion, faith and spirituality, Income, pensions and housing, The meaning of identity and life course events, Death and dying. Women in Later Life will be key reading for students and practitioners with an interest in gender and/or issues surrounding later life.
