Sufism and the Quest for Spiritual Fulfilment in D.H. Lawrence's The Rainbow Fereshteh Zangenehpour, 2000

The Story of Oriental Philosophy Lily Adams Beck, 1928 The Moth to the Flame Connie Zweig, 2005-01-01 In the first historical novel about the bestselling Sufi poet Jelaluddin Rumi based on original sources in Farsi and English, readers discover the key moments that shaped his poetic genius. Sufi, 1999 Teaching Humanity Vernon James Schubel, 2023-03-21 This book introduces Islam through a humanistic lens by highlighting the affective traditions and expressions associated with Sufism and Shi'ism. While most introductory books emphasize the shari'a and especially the Five Pillars as the primary defining characteristic of Islam, Vernon James Schubel provides an alternative introduction which instead underscores the importance of humanity and the human being within Islamic thought and practice. The book stresses the diversity of Islamic beliefs and practices, presenting them as varied responses to the shared multivalent concepts of tawhid, the unity of God, nubuwwa (prophecy) and qiyama (the Day of Judgment). Readers are introduced to essential aspects of Islam, including the life of the Prophet Muhammad, the Qur'an, the development of the shari'a and the emergence of the Sunni, Shi'a and Sufi traditions. The book concludes with a call to redefine mainstream Islam as a religious tradition focused on the centrality of love and rooted in the importance of humanity and universal human virtues. The Sacred Paths of the West Theodore M. Ludwig, 1994 This text combines study of the dynamic historical development of each religious tradition with a comparative thematic structure. Students are encouraged to discover and explore the nature of religious experience by comparing basic themes and issues common to all religions, finding connections with their own personal experiences. By sensitively introducing descriptive material within a comparative thematic structure, this text helps students to understand how each religion provides for its adherents patterns and meanings that make up a full way of life. From Amazon. The Sacred Paths Theodore M. Ludwig, 2001 For courses in Religions of the World, History of Religions, Comparative Religion and Introduction to Religious Studies in departments of Religion, Religious Studies, Theology and Philosophy. Unique in approach, this text combines an historical descriptive presentation of individual religions with a comparative thematic approach. It begins with a discussion of the basic human questions and concerns relating to religion: e.g. origin and identity, ultimate reality, human nature and the good life, and then uses these essential concepts to help describe the beliefs, practices and historical development of each religion. As the work of a single scholar, much of it based on original research, this book offers a consistency and depth missing in many of the texts in this field. Reflections of Tasawwuf Charles Upton, 2008 Sufism is the practice of remaining aware of the real presence of God in every circumstance until Certainty is reached. The dizzying complexity of Sufi metaphysics the passionate beauty of Sufi poetry and the profound Sufi science of spiritual psychology are all based on this The Sufi Path is the process of spiritual transformation ultimately resulting God willing in self transcendence produced by the Certainty of God's presence In traditional Muslim society many different moral intellectual and spiritual functions were performed by those estates responsible for maintaining them Parents imams and grammar school teachers transmitted the fundamental ritual and moral principles of Islamic society The madrasas took care of such traditional sciences as Qur'anic exegesis and the study of prophetic ahadith The schools of fiqh maintained and applied the shari'ah The mutakallimiin developed and taught kalam Islamic scholastic theology The falasifa or philosophers carried on an intellectual tradition largely inherited from the Greeks The ishraqiyyun developed a mystical theosophy based on direct spiritual insight Physicians employed systems of healing derived in part from metaphysics Poets often transmitted sophisticated spiritual lore many other traditional craftsmen did the same The mathematicians astronomers and other scientists sought to uncover the Signs of God in numbers in geometrical shapes and in the heavens And the alchemists worked on the reconstitution of the original human form al fitra in psycho physical terms So when a seeker applied for admittance to a Sufi tariqa he likely knew his Goal The lower rungs of the ladder of moral intellectual and spiritual aspiration were clearly defined and largely taken care of consequently the aspirant to Sufi initiation could be more certain than he was seeking God Alone In modern semi Muslim societies however things are not so clear And as for those Sufi tariqas that have emigrated to the West and the individuals who seek admittance to them the situation is even more ambiguous The traditional supports for a collective worldview that places God first and sees His hand in everything are no longer readily available and no one whose worldview is basically secular can follow the Sufi path as the great Sufis of the past once did In the secular West especially Sufi tariqas lack the exoteric religious culture in relation to which they could be truly esoteric without the Zahir one might say there can be no Batin Therefore This book is not so much a text on Sufism itself as an attempt woefully inadequate to indicate certain elements of the original context that allowed Sufism to be what it is
