A Networked Self A Networked Self:

A Networked Self Zizi Papacharissi, 2010-09-10 A Networked Self examines self presentation and social connection in the digital age. This collection brings together new work on online social networks by leading scholars from a variety of disciplines. The focus of the volume rests on the construction of the self and what happens to self identity when it is presented through networks of social connections in new media environments. The volume is structured around the core themes of identity, community and culture, the central themes of social network sites. Contributors address theory, research and practical implications of many aspects of online social networks, including self presentation, behavioral norms, patterns and routines, social impact, privacy, class, gender, race, divides, taste, cultures, online uses of social networking sites within organizations, activism, civic engagement and political impact.

A Networked Self and Platforms, Stories, Connections Zizi Papacharissi, 2018-05-24 We tell stories about who we are. Through telling these stories we connect with others and affirm our own sense of self. Spaces be they online or offline, private or public, physical, augmented or virtual, or of a hybrid nature, present the performative realms upon which our stories unfold. This volume focuses on how digital platforms support, enhance or confine the networked self. Contributors examine a range of issues relating to storytelling platforms and the self, including the live reporting of events, the curation of information, emerging modalities of journalism, collaboratively formed memories and the instant historification of the present.

A Networked Self and Love Zizi Papacharissi, 2018-06-06 We fall in love every day with others, with ideas, with ourselves. Stories of love excite us and baffle us. This volume is about love and the networked self. It focuses on how love forms, grows or dissolves. Chapters address how relationships of love develop, are sustained or broken up through technologies of expression and connection. Authors explore how technologies reproduce, reorganize or reimagine our dominant rituals of love. Contributors also address what our experiences with love teach us about ourselves, others and the art of living. Every love story has a beginning and an end. Technology does not give love the kiss of eternity, but it can afford love new meaning.

A Networked Self and Birth, Life, Death Zizi Papacharissi, 2018-08-06 We are born, live and die with technologies. This book is about the role technology plays in sustaining narratives of living, dying and coming to be. Contributing authors examine how technologies connect, disrupt or help us reorganize ways of parenting and nurturing life. They further consider how technology sustains our ways of thinking and being, hopefully reconciling the distance between who we are and who we aspire to be. Finally, they address the role technology plays in helping us come to terms with death, looking at technologically enhanced memorials, online rituals of mourning and patterns of grief enabled through technology. Ultimately, this volume is about using technology to reimagine the art of life.

Configuring the Networked Self Julie E. Cohen, 2012-01-24 The legal and technical rules governing flows of information are out of balance argues Julie E Cohen in this original analysis of information law and policy Flows of cultural and technical information are overly restricted while flows of personal information often are not restricted at all The author investigates the institutional forces shaping the emerging information society and the contradictions between those forces and the ways that people use information and information technologies in their everyday lives She then proposes legal principles to ensure that people have ample room for cultural and material participation as well as greater control over the boundary conditions that govern flows of information to from and about them

The Network Self Kathleen Wallace, 2019-03-07 The concept of a relational self has been prominent in feminism communitarianism narrative self theories and social network theories and has been important to theorizing about practical dimensions of selfhood However it has been largely ignored in traditional philosophical theories of personal identity which have been dominated by psychological and animal theories of the self This book offers a systematic treatment of the notion of the self as constituted by social cultural political and biological relations The author's account incorporates practical concerns and addresses how a relational self has agency autonomy responsibility and continuity through time in the face of change and impairments This cumulative network model CNM of the self incorporates concepts from work in the American pragmatist and naturalist tradition The ultimate aim of the book is to bridge traditions that are often disconnected from one another feminism personal identity theory and pragmatism to develop a unified theory of the self Transactions of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers American Institute of Electrical Engineers,1911 List of members in v 7 15 17 19 20 Circuit Analysis of A-C Power Systems Edith Clarke,1943
