

Amazon Leadership principle	Behavioural explanation
 Customer Obsession	Leaders start with the customer and work backwards. They work vigorously to earn and keep customer trust. Although leaders pay attention to competitors, they obsess over customers.
 Ownership	Leaders are owners. They think long term and don't sacrifice long-term value for short-term results. They act on behalf of the entire company, beyond just their own team. They never say "that's not my job."
 Invent and Simplify	Leaders expect and require innovation and invention from their teams and always find ways to simplify. They are externally aware, look for new ideas from everywhere, and are not limited by "not invented here." As we do new things, we accept that we may be misunderstood for long periods of time.
 Are Right, A Lot	Leaders are right a lot. They have strong judgment and good instincts. They seek diverse perspectives and work to disconfirm their beliefs.
 Learn and Be Curious	Leaders are never done learning and always seek to improve themselves. They are curious about new possibilities and act to explore them.
 Hire and Develop the Best	Leaders raise the performance bar with every hire and promotion. They recognize exceptional talent, and willingly move them throughout the organization. Leaders develop leaders and take seriously their role in coaching others. We work on behalf of our people to invent mechanisms for development like Career Choice.
 Insist on the Highest Standards	Leaders have relentlessly high standards—many people may think these standards are unreasonably high. Leaders are continually raising the bar and drive their teams to deliver high-quality products, services, and processes. Leaders ensure that defects do not get sent down the line and that problems are fixed so they stay fixed.

The World's Most Powerful Leadership Principle James C. Hunter, 2004-06-29. To lead is not to be the boss, the head, honcho or the brass. To lead is to serve. Although serving may imply weakness to some, conjuring up a picture of the CEO waiting on the workforce hand and foot, servant leadership is actually a robust, revolutionary idea that can have significant impact on an organization's performance. Jim Hunter champions this hard soft approach to leadership which turns bosses and managers into coaches and mentors. By hard Hunter means that servant leaders can be hard nosed, even autocratic when it comes to the basics of running the business, determining the mission where the company is headed and values what the rules are that govern the journey and setting standards and accountability. Servant leaders don't commission a poll or take a vote when it comes to these critical fundamentals. After all, that's what a leader's job is and people look to the leader to set the course and establish standards. But once that direction is provided, servant leaders turn the organizational structure upside down. They focus on giving employees everything they need to win, be it resources, time, guidance or inspiration. Servant leaders know that providing for people and engaging hearts and minds foster a workforce that understands the benefits of striving for the greater good. The emphasis is on building authority not power, on exerting influence not intimidation. While many believe that servant leadership is a wonderful inspiring idea, what's been missing is the how to the specifics of implementation. Jim Hunter shows how to do the right thing for the people you lead. A servant leader or a self-serving leader. Which one are you? With Jim Hunter's guidance, everyone has the potential to develop into a leader with character who leads with authority.
