Bodily Arts Rhetoric And Athletics In Ancient Greece:

Bodily Arts Debra Hawhee, 2013-09-06 The role of athletics in ancient Greece extended well beyond the realms of kinesiology competition and entertainment. In teaching and philosophy athletic practices overlapped with rhetorical ones and formed a shared mode of knowledge production. Bodily Arts examines this intriguing intersection offering an important context for understanding the attitudes of ancient Greeks toward themselves and their environment. In classical society, rhetoric was an activity one that was in essence performed. Detailing how athletics came to be rhetoric's twin art in the bodily aspects of learning and performance. Bodily Arts draws on diverse orators and philosophers such as Isocrates, Demosthenes, and Plato as well as medical treatises and a wealth of artifacts from the time including statues and vases. Debra Hawhee's insightful study spotlights the notion of a classical gymnasium as the location for a habitual mingling of athletic and rhetorical performances and the use of ancient athletic instruction to create rhetorical training based on rhythm, repetition, and response. Presenting her data against the backdrop of a broad cultural perspective rather than a narrow disciplinary one, Hawhee presents a pioneering interpretation of Greek civilization from the sixth, fifth, and fourth centuries BCE by observing its citizens in action.

The Multimediated Rhetoric of the Internet Carolyn Handa, 2013-12-04 This project is a critical rhetorical study of the digital text we call the Internet in particular the style and figurative surface of its many pages as well as the conceptual design patterns structuring the content of those same pages. Handa argues that as our lives become increasingly digital we must consider rhetoric applicable to more than just printed text or to images. Digital analysis demands our acknowledgement of digital fusion a true merging of analytic skills in many media and dimensions. CDs, DVDs, and an Internet increasingly capable of streaming audio and video prove that literacy today means more than it used to namely the ability to understand information. However, presented Handa considers pedagogy, professional writing, hypertext theory, rhetorical studies, and composition studies moving analysis beyond merely using the web towards thinking rhetorically about its construction and its impact on culture. This book shows how analyzing the web rhetorically helps us to understand the inescapable fact that culture is reflected through all media fused within the parameters of digital technology.

The Allure of Sports in Western Culture John Zilcosky, Marlo A. Burks, 2019-09-10 Whether it is our love of chance and vicarious thrill, our need to release anxiety and aggression or our appreciation of the arc traced by a ball at a crucial moment sports draw us in. The Allure of Sports in Western Culture contributes to contemporary debates about the attraction of sports in the West by providing a historical grounding as well as theoretical perspectives and contextualization. Bringing together the work of literary theorists, historians, and athletes the volume's dual emphasis allows us to better understand the historical and ideological reasons for the changing nature of sports allure from Ancient Greece and Rome to the modern Olympics. The findings show that allure is shaped by larger forces such as poverty, wealth, and status changing moral standards and political and cultural indoctrination. On the other hand personal and psychological factors play an equally important if less tangible role our love for scandal the seduction of deception and violence and the physiological intoxication of watching and participating in sports keep us hooked At the heart of the volume lies the tension between our love of sport and our knowledge of its only barely hidden cruelty exploitation and manipulation Moving Bodies Debra Hawhee,2022-03-23 A sophisticated study of how bodies and language move and are moved by each other Kenneth Burke may be best known for his theories of dramatism and of language as symbolic action but few know him as one of the twentieth century's foremost theorists of the relationship between language and bodies In Moving Bodies Debra Hawhee focuses on Burke's studies from the 1930s 40s and 50s while illustrating that his interest in reading the body as a central force of communication began early in his career By exploring Burke's extensive writings on the subject alongside revealing considerations of his life and his scholarship Hawhee maps his recurring invocation of a variety of disciplinary perspectives in order to theorize bodies and communication working across and even beyond the arts humanities and sciences Burke's sustained analysis of the body drew on approaches representing a range of specialties and interests including music mysticism endocrinology evolution speech gesture theory and speech act theory as well as his personal experiences with pain and illness Hawhee shows that Burke's goal was to advance understanding of the body's relationship to identity to the creation of meaning and to the circulation of language Her study brings to the fore one of Burke's most important and understudied contributions to language theory and she establishes Burke as a pioneer in a field where investigations into affect movement and sense perception broaden understanding of physical ways of knowing

Rhetorical Touch Shannon Walters,2014-10-20

Rhetorical Touch argues for an understanding of touch as a rhetorical art by approaching the sense of touch through the kinds of bodies and minds that rhetorical history and theory have tended to exclude In resistance to a rhetorical tradition focused on shaping able bodies and neurotypical minds Shannon Walters explores how people with various disabilities psychological cognitive and physical employ touch to establish themselves as communicators and to connect with disabled and nondisabled audiences In doing so she argues for a theory of rhetoric that understands and values touch as rhetorical Essential to her argument is a redefinition of key concepts and terms the rhetorical situation rhetorical identification and the appeals of ethos character pathos emotion and logos logic or message By connecting Empedoclean and sophistic theories to Aristotelian rhetoric and Burkean approaches Walters's methods mobilize a wide range of key figures in rhetorical history and theory in response to the context of disability Using Empedocles tactile approach to logos Walters shows how the iterative writing processes of people with psychological disabilities shape crucial spaces for identification based on touch in online and real life spaces Mobilizing the touch based properties of the rhetorical practice of m tis Walters demonstrates how rhetors with autism approach the crafting of ethos in generative and embodied ways Rereading the rhetorical practice of kairos in relation to the proximity between bodies Walters demonstrates how writers with physical disabilities move beyond approaches of pathos based on pity and inspiration The volume also includes a classroom based exploration of the discourses and assumptions regarding bodies in relation to haptic or touch based technologies. Because the sense of touch is the most persistent of the senses Walters argues that in contexts of disability and in situations in which people with and without disabilities interact touch can be a particularly vital instrument for creating meaning connection and partial identification. She contends that a rhetoric thus reshaped stretches contemporary rhetoric and composition studies to respond to the contributions of disabled rhetors and transforms the traditional rhetorical appeals and canons. Ultimately Walters argues a rhetoric of touch allows for a richer understanding of the communication processes of a wide range of rhetors who use embodied strategies. Physical Education, Exercise and Sport Science in a Changing Society William Freeman, 2011-01-21

Ancient Rhetorics for Contemporary Students Sharon Crowley, Debra Hawhee, 2009 Revives the classical strategies of ancient Greek and Roman rhetoricians and adapts them to the needs of contemporary writers and speakers. Doing Emotion Laura R.

Micciche, 2007 That the emotional realities of teaching have changed significantly over the past decade is undeniable. Doing Emotion provides much needed guidance both on understanding these changes and on imagining a responsive pedagogy for these emotionally fraught times a pedagogy grounded not in fear but in hope for better times. Richard E Miller For Laura Micciche emotion is neither the enemy of reason nor an irrational response to actions and ideas. Rather she argues in the provocative and groundbreaking Doing Emotion that emotion is integral to research discussion analysis and argument that is to the essential fabric of rhetoric and composition. Doing Emotion argues for a rhetoric of emotion by foregrounding the idea that emotions are performative enacted and embodied in our social interactions produced between and among individuals and textual objects. Emotion is something we do rather than something we have. Micciche explores the implications of this claim in the context of writing classrooms administrative structures and the formation of disciplinary identity. Drawing upon current research in emotion studies performance studies and feminist rhetorical studies. Micciche argues that a shift in our thinking about emotion leads to productive possibilities for teaching and learning. Rather than repressing and denying emotionality Micciche demands that we acknowledge its constitutive role in our professional and pedagogical lives as well as in our evolving understandings of textual and extralinguistic meanings. The Responsibilities of Rhetoric Rhetoric Society of America.
