Who's who in the West Marquis Who's Who, LLC, 1978-03 Bob Thompson: So let us all be citizens Bob Thompson, 2024-06-25 A colorful fantastical and musical body of work by the painter Bob Thompson. Thompson who finally seems to be on fame's doorstep invents in much the same way he makes you feel how it might have felt to see a picture of an angel for the first time. The New Yorker Influenced by jazz music Bob Thompson painted spirited colorful compositions that feature an interplay of bodies, allegories and natural landscapes while reconfiguring European masterworks. Though his career as a painter spanned only a brief period from 1958 to his untimely death at age twenty-eight in 1966 Thompson left behind a singular and influential body of figurative work that remains vitally resonant. Looking at his particular consideration of color line and figuration developed during a period when abstraction was the dominant trend in American art this intimate exhibition catalogue the seventh volume in the Clarion series pays homage to the friction Thompson generated between his proximity to and deviation from canonical sources. The phrase So let us all be citizens taken from a speech the artist gave as a teenager forecasted his passion for the tenets of freedom and expression and encapsulates the power of Thompson's work in widening the scope of what is imaginable in contemporary painting and for whom. With an introduction by Ebony L. Haynes this publication expands upon Thompson's dynamic practice and features works that spotlight his signature high contrast palette. Ahmanson-Murphy fine art books, 1900 Bob Thompson Bob Thompson, 1974
