Partners in Innovation Elaine Seymour, 2005. Partners in Innovation draws on three intensive interview studies of college science innovations: two in chemistry and one in astronomy. The data reveal the TAs' contribution, including their ability to explain and address common problems such as student resistance and creating structural and intellectual coherence. The author addresses TAs' undermet need for professional development in both conventional and innovative courses and the conditions that shape the spectrum of TAs' responses to new pedagogy, from passive resistance even sabotage to collaborative engagement. Seymour argues from evidence that effective deployment, adequate professional education, and collegial collaboration between faculty and their TAs are critical in ensuring the future quality of science education.

BOOK JACKET Current Index to Journals in Education, 2002 Place as Text, 2000 What Are They Thinking? Page Keeley, 2014-04-01. Children are continually developing ideas and explanations about their natural world. Some of these ideas are consistent with the science children are taught; others differ significantly from scientific explanations. Many of these ideas will follow students into adulthood if they remain hidden from the teacher and unresolved. The challenge for teachers is to find ways to elicit these ideas and then use appropriate strategies to move students' learning forward. Page Keeley, author of the bestselling NSTA Press series Uncovering Student Ideas in Science. You don't have to become a mind reader to understand the ideas young students bring to science class. This collection will help you draw out and then recognize what students know or think they know about the natural world. What Are They Thinking? is a compendium of 30 Formative Assessment Probes, columns from NSTA's elementary journal Science and Children. Each chapter provides a sample formative assessment probe, a set of interesting questions that root out commonly held, often mistaken ideas. Geared to elementary students probe topics range from why you can see the Moon in the daytime to where water goes when it evaporates to what is or isn't a rock. Your students' answers to each probe will help you take a step back and figure out how to guide them from where they are conceptually to where they need to be. Accompanying teacher notes easy to grasp explanations and advice that tell you how to encourage evidence based discussion and then monitor students understanding. A bonus feature a set of study group questions written especially for this compendium by award winning author Page Keeley. So forget about acquiring psychic powers. Instead turn to What Are They Thinking to transform both your teaching and your students learning about science.

Learning Spaces Diana Oblinger, 2006 El espacio ya sea físico o virtual puede tener un impacto significativo en el aprendizaje. Learning Spaces se centra en la forma en que las expectativas de los alumnos influyen en dichos espacios en los principios y actividades que facilitan el aprendizaje y en el papel de la tecnología desde la perspectiva de quienes crean los entornos de aprendizaje: profesores, tecnólogos del aprendizaje, bibliotecarios y administradores. La tecnología de la información ha aportado capacidades nuevas a los espacios de aprendizaje ya sea estimulando una mayor interacción mediante el uso de herramientas de colaboración, videoconferencias con expertos internacionales o abriendo mundos virtuales para la exploración. Este libro representa una exploración continua a medida que unimos el espacio, la tecnología y la pedagogía para asegurar el éxito de los estudiantes.
