an experience and bodies that cannot know without occupying their unique point of view The author argues that the desire to empathize with another's ineffable bodily experiences is finding new expression in contexts of particular urgency For example patients wishing to communicate their complex physical experiences to their extended networks of support in healthcare or communities placing policymakers inside vulnerable marginalized or disenfranchised virtual bodies in an attempt to prompt personal change This book is intended for students academics and practitioner researchers studying or working in the related fields of immersive theatre art making arts science and VR in applied performance practices
