

WHAT YOU CAN DO TO Create CULTURALLY RELEVANT CLASSROOMS

Greet

Greet students at the door at the beginning and end of each day.

Identify

Have students identify themselves each time that they speak.

Be Transparent

Avoid hidden agendas. Share your truth.

Recognize

Recognize that you might carry stereotypes and preconceived notions about students based on their perceived identity.

Guide

Guide students to reflect upon and question situations using multiple lenses/perspectives rather than relying on a single story.

Show

Use storytelling to illustrate your point.

Involve

Use call and response to get the attention of the class.

Be Fair

Do not make generalizations about a group (by race, gender, religion, etc.). Avoid comments like, "All men..." "All women..." or "We all..."

Build

Build community through collaborative work.

Chant

Include choral chants to help lock information in memory.

Nurture

Create a safe learning environment (by doing all of the items on this list).

Address

As you are initially greeting students at the door, engage them in conversation about where they are from, and later, about issues important to them. Use these cultural referents throughout your daily lessons. Use students' names and avoid creating nicknames if you are unable to initially pronounce their name.

Look

Encourage students to look at peers in the room while speaking, as opposed to just the teacher.

Gather

Use inquiry effectively to gather more information about the needs of your students, so you can accurately meet their needs.

Include

Do not assume that your references will be understood by everyone (e.g., saying, "The igneous rock in question was bigger than a tennis ball" assumes that everyone knows how big a tennis ball is, when that may not be the case).

Diversify

Reference texts by a variety of authors (for different ethnicities, genders, etc.).

Avoid

Avoid sarcasm, as it will offend some.

Share

Share your story in order to build relational capacity.

Move

Use movement throughout activities—it helps cement memory.

Understand

Know that biology, family, community, culture, and generation all contribute to a person's tapestry.

Remember

Remember, you cannot not communicate. Every behavior is a kind of communication.

Avid Culturally Relevant Teaching Guide:

International Handbook of Urban Education William T. Pink, George W. Noblit, 2008-09-03 It is evident that urban education has become the central focus of educators at the present time. In the U.S. for example, almost one third of all school age children attend schools in large urban school districts. It is in these urban schools where the diversity of cultures and languages is highest and where student learning is most problematic. What has emerged from recent work to improve urban schools is the insight that there is no one size fits all panacea. Rather, we have discovered that the local context shapes in critically important ways what will be effective at the school level. The universality of the problematics with urban education together with the importance of understanding the local or situated context of improvement interventions brings into sharp focus the importance and timeliness of an undertaking like the International Handbook of Urban Education. An important focus of the International Handbook of Urban Education will be the interrogation of both the social and political factors that lead to different problem posing and subsequent solutions within each region. An important question to be answered for example is what it takes in terms of resources, political will and policy actions to improve urban education.

Hatching Tier Two and Three Interventions in Your Elementary School Counseling Program Trish Hatch, Ashley Kruger, Nicole Pablo, Whitney Triplett, 2019-10-24 Ready your school counseling program for the kids who need it the most. For many students, elementary school is a time of tough transitions. When a student struggles in class, has difficulty making friends, experiences a life changing event or crisis, or faces other challenges, your support is essential. Finding the right intervention for each identified student can be the key to that child's future success. In this companion book to The Use of Data in School Counseling and Hatching Results for Elementary School Counseling, Trish Hatch, Ashley Kruger, Nicole Pablo, and Whitney Triplett offer a systematic, evidence based approach to creating and implementing high quality interventions within a Multi-Tiered System of Support (MTSS). This hands on guide features thorough exploration and explanation of Tier 2 and Tier 3 activities, guidelines for progress monitoring and collaboration with teachers and family, templates for developing lesson plans and action plans, web based resources including downloadable templates, and a discussion guide. Personal stories and vignettes from practicing school counselors and teachers of the year. Every student deserves a quality education in a positive, healthy, safe environment. When you provide targeted, data driven interventions for students in need, you make that possible for them and improve school life for their classmates and teachers as well.

Bridging the Gap Hank Gutierrez, 2023-09-05 Given the academic perils facing our Black and historically marginalized students of color in the United States, the need to bridge the gap between classroom based culturally relevant practices and culturally responsive leadership has never been greater. How is this done? Answering that question is the goal of this book. Explicit tactics are shared for university and site level leaders in mobilizing the heavy lifting in creating a transformational base supporting teachers' enactment of culturally responsive pedagogy.
