1980-1981. It was determined that the average annual rate of growth was 1.6% per year, which is consistent with the long-term trend. This projection will prove useful in planning and future assessments, such as the RPA, which requires knowledge of the current population.

and their descendants were always well represented in the transnational community, whose efforts, including a growing international network of their own and other transnationalists, helped strengthen and build their collective transnational ties. Such a search for transnational connections had massive impacts on the transnational community, however, as it transformed the international and transnational community's relationship to the United States. It also strengthened some common transnational bonds, such as those between the United States and Canada, as well as between the United States and Mexico.
