

Asteroid

The object was a stony asteroid. As it entered Earth's atmosphere, its high speed created a large air pressure difference between the area just in front of the asteroid and area just behind the asteroid. The large pressure difference eventually exceeded the structural strength of the asteroid. The asteroid flattened, decelerated rapidly due to dramatic increase in its surface area, and fragmented before reaching the ground. This fragmentation would have sounded like an explosion. Calculations show that an asteroid between 10 m and 100 m in diameter would have exploded much higher than 8 km, but a stony asteroid that would fragment at or near an altitude of 8 km. Every one of the asteroid fragments would have been too small to be seen with the naked eye. The fragments were observed to be solidified

B. dissipated in the upper atmosphere.

C. was released less than 1 km above Earth's surface.
