

WHEELS, CARBON STEEL

Specification M-107/M-208

Adopted: 1962; Last Revised: 2011

1.0 SCOPE

These specifications cover one-wear, two-wear, and multiple-wear wrought and cast carbon steel wheels for locomotives and cars—Classes L, A, B, C, and D (heat-treated) wheels used in interchange service. All freight car wheels manufactured for AAR interchange service must be heat-treated and of a low-stress design.

1.1 Class B, C, or D wheels must be used for freight cars in interchange service.

1.2 Class B, C, or D wheels are recommended for use on locomotives.

1.3 For passenger car service, the various classes are intended generally as follows:

Class L—High-speed service with more severe braking conditions than other classes and light wheel loads.

Class A—High-speed service with severe braking conditions, but with moderate wheel loads.

Class B—High-speed service with severe braking conditions and heavier wheel loads.

Class C—(1) Service with light braking conditions and heavy wheel loads.

(2) Service with heavier braking conditions where off-tread brakes are employed.

2.0 DESIGN

2.1 Standard wheel types and tread and flange contours for freight car and locomotive steel wheels shall be as shown in this specification. Interchangeability requirements and tolerances and tread and flange contours for the authorized wheel types are shown in Figs. B.8 through B.14. The interchangeability requirements and tolerances are generally limited to those required to ensure the wheel is compatible with the standard axles, bearings, side frames, and track. In the event that design constraints other than these are shown, the wheel producer may request an exception or change by application, with supporting data, to the AAR Technical Services Division (hereinafter termed AAR). Staff will, in turn, submit the application to the Wheels, Axles, Bearings, and Lubrication (WABL) Working Committee (hereinafter referred to as the "Committee") for review.

2.2 In the event any company feels there is a need for a wheel type not currently listed, an application, with supporting data, should be made to the AAR, who will obtain the decision of the Committee.

3.0 Authorization for delivery for interchange use of any AAR wheel type must be obtained from the AAR as described in Appendix A.

4.0 Qualification as a manufacturer of wheels for use in AAR interchange service must be in accordance with Appendix B. Qualification is effective until revoked for cause by the Committee. Failure to maintain reasonable quality standards in manufacturing is an example of cause.
