Robert S. Ehlers, Jr.

Able Ap1300 Manual:

Targeting the Third Reich Robert S. Ehlers, Jr., 2015-04-15 When large formations of Allied four engine bombers finally flew over Europe it marked the beginning of the end for the Third Reich Their relentless hammering of Germany totaling more than 14 million missions took out oil refineries industries and transportation infrastructures vital to the Reich's war effort While other accounts have focused on operational details this is the first book to reveal the crucial role of air intelligence in these dramatic campaigns Robert Ehlers reexamines these bombings through the lens of both air intelligence and operations a dual approach that shows how the former was so vital to the latter's success Air intelligence was essential to both targeting and damage assessment and by demonstrating its contributions to the Combined Bomber Offensive of 1943-1945 Ehlers provides a wealth of new insight into the war Ehlers describes the close ties that developed between the Royal Air Force's precision intelligence arm and the U.S. Army Air Force's precision bombardment forces telling how the RAF's photographic reconnaissance and signals intelligence steered both British and American bombers to the right targets at the right intervals with the right munitions He shows that the greatest strength of this partnership was its ability to orchestrate all aspects of damage assessment within an effective organizational structure so that by 1944 senior air commanders like the RAF's Arthur Bomber Harris and the AAF's Carl Tooey Spaatz could gauge the accuracy of bombing with a high degree of precision analyze its effects on the German war effort and determine its effectiveness in helping the Allies achieve strategic objectives Ehlers focuses on three key offensives in 1944 against French and Belgian rail supply lines delivering German troops and supplies to Normandy against German oil refineries and against railroads and waterways inside the Reich that had a disastrous effect on the Nazi war effort In the process he underscores the degree to which bombers constituted part of a highly effective combined arms force giving Allied armies crucial advantages on the battlefield Drawing on a huge collection of bomb damage assessment photographs and a wealth of other archival sources he shows that the success of these and other efforts can be traced directly to the success of air intelligence Providing a deeper and more accurate understanding of the bomber campaigns role in the Allied victory Ehlers's study testifies to the strategic importance of these efforts in that war and provides a tool for understanding the importance of intelligence operations in future conflicts

Educating Air Forces Randall Wakelam, David Varey, 2020-12-01 Compared to armies and navies which have existed as professional fighting services for centuries the technology that makes air forces possible is much newer As a result these services have had to quickly develop methods of preparing aviators to operate in conditions ranging from peace or routine security to full scale war The first book to address the history and scope of air power professionalization through learning programs Educating Air Forces offers valuable new insight into strategy and tactics worldwide Here a group of international experts examine the philosophies policies and practices of air service educational efforts in the United States France Italy Germany Australia Canada and the UK The contributors discuss the founding successes and failures of European air force learning programs between the Great War and World War II and explore how the tense Cold War political climate influenced the creation curriculum and results of various programs They also consider how educational programs are adapting to soldiers needs and the demands of modern warfare Featuring contributions from eminent scholars in the field this volume surveys the learning approaches globally employed by air forces in the past century and evaluates their effectiveness Educating Air Forces reveals how experiential learning and formal education are not only inextricably intertwined but also necessary to cope with advances in modern warfare
