

CHAPTER 4 BARRIER DESIGN AND PLACEMENT

4.1 OVERVIEW OF THE AASHTO ROADSIDE DESIGN GUIDE DESIGN PROCESS

Chapter 5 of the AASHTO Roadside Design Guide (RDG) contains roadside barrier layout and design guidance. It is important to understand the philosophy behind the design process presented in the RDG. If a vehicle leaves the roadway at approximately 10 degrees in the vicinity of the upstream end of a roadside barrier and the driver then attempts to correct and return to the pavement, the vehicle could be traveling parallel and behind the barrier. This design process is intended to allow sufficient room for a vehicle to come to a stop before striking the hazard if it should get into this situation. An important part of the layout process is to allow a clear zone behind the barrier upstream of the hazard. This is also an important concept to remember in the construction and maintenance of the roadway.

4.1.1 Design Variables

The variables used in the design process are defined below:

Roadside Design Guide American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials. Task Force for Roadside Safety, 2011 The Roadside Design Guide presents a synthesis of current information and operating practices related to roadside safety and is written in dual units metric and U S Customary This book is a guide It is not a standard nor is it a design policy It is intended to use as a resource document from which individual highway agencies can develop standards and policies Although much of the material in the guide can be considered universal in its application several recommendations are subjective in nature and may need modification to fit local conditions However it is important that significant deviations from the guide be based on operational experience and objective analysis The 2011 edition of the AASHTO Roadside Design Guide has been updated to include hardware that has met the evaluation criteria contained in the National Cooperative Highway Research Program NCHRP Report 350 Recommended Procedures for the Safety Performance Evaluation of Highway Features and begins to detail the most current evaluation criteria contained under the Manual for Assessing Safety Hardware 2009 MASH For the most part roadside hardware tested and accepted under older guidelines that are no longer applicable has not been excluded in this edition AASHTO website Recommended Guidelines for Curb and Curb-barrier Installations Chuck A.  Eugene Buth,2003 The existing Montana Department of Transportation DOT concrete median barrier sections are 3 048 m 10 ft long New Jersey shaped barriers with a pin and loop connection Two pairs of 25 mm 1 in diameter wire rope loops are connected using a 660 mm 26 in long 25 mm 1 in diameter pin that is not restrained at the bottom Since the system has a low probability of complying with the NCHRP Report 350 guidelines and the expected dynamic barrier deflection under design impact conditions is greater than desired by Montana DOT two alternate barrier connection concepts were proposed and evaluated using computer simulations These included a modified pin and loop connection and a newly conceived lapped splice connection After these two designs appeared to perform acceptably during simulation the proposed designs were constructed for full scale crash testing to determine whether the designs would actually meet NCHRP Report 350 crash test criteria This report presents the details of the simulation analysis the details of the proposed barrier designs the details of the full scale crash tests and the NCHRP Report 350 evaluation of each of the tests Both the modified pin and loop barrier and the lapped splice connection barrier performed acceptably for NCHRP Report 350 test 3 11 Transportation
