Advances In Marine Biology Volume 66:

The Ecosystem Approach to Marine Planning and Management Sue Kidd, Andy Plater, Chris Frid, 2012-08-06 The marine environment is one of our most precious yet fragile natural resources. It provides a wide range of essential goods and services including food regulation of climate and nutrient cycling as well as a setting for transport recreation and tourism. This environment is however extremely complex and very sensitive to development pressures and other forms of human influence. Planning and management of the sea are similarly complicated reflecting intricate legal institutional and ownerships patterns. This creates a situation where marine ecosystems are vulnerable to over exploitation or neglect. The Ecosystem Approach to Marine Planning and Management describes how growing concern about the state of our seas is resulting in the development of new approaches to marine planning and management. For example the United Nations Environment Programme has called for the widespread introduction of Marine Spatial Planning (MSP) and the European Union has recently been consulting on a new European Maritime Policy designed to stimulate economic growth but at the same time protect the resource base. Within the United Kingdom the 2010 Marine Act draws upon the experience of town and country planning and brings into being a new system of Marine Spatial Planning. The authors show that a common feature of all these developments is an appreciation that more integrated forms of planning and management are required for our seas and that new arrangements must draw together understanding from natural science social science and many other perspectives. Adopting such a trans disciplinary and holistic or ecosystems approach the book distils the expertise of these different disciplines and seeks to promote a broader understanding of the origins and practicalities of new approaches to marine planning and management. Marine Biodiversity Conservation Keith Hiscock, 2014-08-21 Effective marine biodiversity conservation is dependent upon a clear scientific rationale for practical interventions. This book is intended to provide knowledge and tools for marine conservation practitioners and to identify issues and mechanisms for upper level undergraduate and Masters students. It also provides sound guidance for marine biology field course work and professionals. The main focus is on benthic species living on or in the seabed and immediately above rather than on commercial fisheries or highly mobile vertebrates. Such species including algae and invertebrates are fundamental to a stable and sustainable marine ecosystem. The book is a practical guide based on a clear exposition of the principles of marine ecology and species biology to demonstrate how marine conservation issues and mechanisms have been tackled worldwide and especially the criteria structures and decision trees that practitioners and managers will find useful. Well illustrated with conceptual diagrams and flow charts the book includes case study examples from both temperate and tropical marine environments. The Mediterranean Sea in the Era of Global Change 2 Christophe Migon, Paul Nival, Antoine Sciandra, 2020-02-25 Due to its particular characteristics the Mediterranean Sea is often viewed as a microcosm of the World Ocean. Its proportionally reduced dimensions and peculiar hydrological circulation render it susceptible to environmental and climatic constraints which are rapidly evolving. The Mediterranean is therefore an ideal site to examine in order to better understand a number of key oceanographic phenomena This is especially true of the Ligurian Sea where due to its geology oceanic conditions are found close to the coast As such 30 years ago an offshore time series site provided a fresh impetus to a long history of marine biology research which has generated a very important body of data and knowledge This is the second volume in a two volume series that summarizes this research Across these two books the reader will find 13 chapters that examine the geology physics chemistry and biology of the Ligurian Sea always with the goal of providing key elements of oceanography in a changing world

Tools for Oceanography and Ecosystemic Modeling

André Monaco, Patrick Prouzet, 2016-07-14 Studying the Ocean Planet requires measuring and sampling instruments to feed models that take into account its complexity This book presents the diversity of observation and monitoring techniques at various scales but also different kinds of model that take into account some conceptual schemes incorporating various scientific knowledge Sampling is approached via the efficiency of fishing gears underwater acoustics is used to detect count identify and listen to live and mobile living resources Bio logging allows us to rely on the behavior of marine animals to help investigate environments that are difficult to sample by conventional means while listing the physiological changes they undergo Modeling is presented not only in a functional framework but also in an exploratory design incorporating various scenarios for ecosystem changes under the pressure of global change This ninth volume completes the Seas and Oceans Set that adopts a transversal approach leading to the governance and sustainable management of the marine environment

Marine Conservation Ecology

John Roff, 2013-09-05 This major textbook provides a broad coverage of the ecological foundations of marine conservation including the rationale importance and practicalities of various approaches to marine conservation and management The scope of the book encompasses an understanding of the elements of marine biodiversity from global to local levels threats to marine biodiversity and the structure and function of marine environments as related to conservation issues The authors describe the potential approaches initiatives and various options for conservation from the genetic to the species community and ecosystem levels in marine environments They explore methods for identifying the units of conservation and the development of defensible frameworks for marine conservation They describe planning of ecologically integrated conservation strategies including decision making on size boundaries numbers and connectivity of protected area networks The book also addresses relationships between fisheries and biodiversity novel methods for conservation planning in the coastal zone and the evaluation of conservation initiatives changing conditions They have been thoroughly reviewed and accepted for publication The chapters cover aspects such as Threats to ultraoligotrophic marine ecosystems Ch 1 Modelling the pelagic ecosystem dynamics the NW Mediterranean Ch 2 The marine ecosystem of the Sub antarctic Prince Edward Islands Ch 3 Meiofauna as a tool for marine ecosystem biomonitoring Ch 4 Chemical interactions in Antarctic marine benthic ecosystems Ch 5 An Interdisciplinary Approach on Erosion Mitigation for Coral Reef Protection A Case Study from the Eastern Caribbean Ch 6 A revisit to the evolution and ecophysiology of the Labyrinthulomycetes Ch 7 Seabed mapping and marine spatial planning a case study from a Swedish marine protected area Ch 8 Management strategies to limit the impact of bottom trawling on VMEs in the High Seas of the SW Atlantic Ch 9 Hydrocarbon contamination and the swimming behavior of the estuarine copepod Eurytemora affinis Ch 10 and Interactions between marine ecosystems and tourism on the Adriatic and Mediterranean Ch 11
