Treating Trauma Survivors With PTSD Rachel Yehuda, 2008-08-13 In recent years considerable research as well as clinical guidelines based on study findings has been published on the treatment of posttraumatic stress disorder PTSD. A gap remains however between the controlled environments and protocols used in intervention research and the more complex and often imperfect settings and situations that clinicians must navigate in daily practice. Moreover clinicians routinely see patients whose comorbid substance abuse self destructive behavior or medical illness would likely exclude them from research studies. In short although the extensive literature is certainly helpful in articulating the various treatment modalities available to clinicians the strength of the evidence for the efficacy of the treatments and the recommendations and personal preferences of experts the literature does not address the real life dilemmas that clinicians face in attempting to treat trauma survivors. What is needed is a way to bridge the gap between research and practice to translate study findings into everyday clinical realities. Treating Trauma Survivors With PTSD answers that need. Centre Treatment of Posttraumatic Stress Disorder Institute of Medicine, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on Treatment of Posttraumatic Stress Disorder, 2008-01-18 Mental disorders including posttraumatic stress disorder PTSD constitute an important health care need of veterans especially those recently separated from service. Treatment of Posttraumatic Stress Disorder An Assessment of the Evidence takes a systematic look the efficacy of pharmacologic and psychological treatment modalities for PTSD on behalf of the Department of Veterans Affairs. By reviewing existing studies in order to draw conclusions about the strength of evidence on several types of treatment the Committee on the Treatment of Posttraumatic Stress Disorder found that many of these studies were faulty in design and performance and that relatively few of these studies have been conducted in populations of veterans despite suggestions that civilian and veteran populations respond differently to various types of treatment. The committee also notes that the evidence is scarce on the acceptability, efficacy or generalizability of treatment in ethnic and cultural minorities as few studies stratified results by ethnic background. Despite challenges in the consistency, quality and depth of research the committee found the evidence sufficient to conclude the efficacy of exposure therapies in treating PTSD. The committee found the evidence inadequate to determine efficacy of different types of pharmacotherapies of three different psychotherapy modalities and of psychotherapy delivered in group formats. The committee also made eight critical recommendations some in response to the VA's questions related to recovery and the length and timing of PTSD treatment and others addressing research methodology gaps in evidence and funding issues.
