Educational Philosophy for a Post-secular Age David Lewin, 2016-10-04 Educational Philosophy for a Post secular Age reinterprets post secular insights for educational theory by recognising that the persistence of religion in contemporary life raises new questions about the place of religion in education Two common assumptions are critically examined first that the better educated a society becomes the more secular it becomes and second that religion can and should be separated from public education For too long religion has had an uneasy relationship with education being seen either as a foreign invader a problem to be solved or as a mechanism by which to reinforce particular religious cultural or national identities In order to move educational theory beyond the debates about indoctrination and competing rights between parents children and nation states the argument undercuts rationalist conceptions of religion and education that tend to frame the debates in terms of competing truth claims or worldviews Drawing on a diverse range of theological philosophical and educational sources this book demonstrates the continuing significance of the Christian mystical tradition to educational theory It proposes an exploration of democratic education that brings together two apparently irreconcilable poles the meaning of religion in education and contemporary life and the need for a deliberative democratic process that is fit for the post secular age It argues that religious literacy can be served by democratic encounters in public religious education Educational Philosophy for a Post secular Age will be of interest to researchers academics and postgraduate students in the fields of the philosophy of education philosophy of religion education policy politics anthropology and cultural theory It will particularly appeal to those of both secular and religious persuasions interested in the place of religion in education and public life
