A History of Christian Missions in China Kenneth Scott Latourette, 1929 A Star in the East Rodney Stark, Xiuhua Wang, 2015-05-02 What is the state of Christianity in China Some scholars say that China is invulnerable to religion In contrast others say that past efforts of missionaries have failed writing off those converted as nothing more than rice Christians or cynical souls who had frequented the missions for the benefits they provided. Some wonder if the Cultural Revolution extinguished any chances of Christianity in China. Rodney Stark and Xiuhua Wang offer a different perspective arguing that Christianity is alive well and on the rise. Stark approaches the topic from an extensive research background in Christianity and Chinese history and Wang provides an inside look at Christianity and its place in her home country of China. Both authors cover the history of religion in China disproving older theories concerning the number of Christians and the kinds of Christians that have emerged in the past 155 years. Stark and Wang claim that when just considering the visible Christians those not part of underground churches thousands of Chinese are still converted to Christianity daily and forty new churches are opening each week. A Star in the East draws on two major national surveys to sketch a close up of religion in China. A reliable estimate is that by 2007 there were approximately 60 million Christians in China. If the current growth rate were to hold until 2030 there would be more Christians in China about 295 million than in any other nation. This trend has significant implications not just for China but for the greater world order. It is probable that Chinese Christianity will splinter into denominations likely leading to the same political social and economic ramifications seen in the West today. Whether you are new to studying Christianity in China or whether this has been your area of interest for years A Star in the East provides a reliable thought provoking and engaging account of the resilience of the Christian faith in China and the implications it has for the future.

Christianity in China Daniel H. Bays, 1996. This pathbreaking volume will force a reassessment of many common assumptions about the relationship between Christianity and modern China. The overall thrust of the twenty essays is that despite the conflicts and tension that often have characterized relations between Christianity and China in fact Christianity has been for the past two centuries or more putting down roots within Chinese society and it is still in the process of doing so. Thus Christianity is here interpreted not just as a Western religion that imposed itself on China but one that was becoming a Chinese religion as Buddhism did centuries ago. Eschewing the usual focus on foreign missionaries as is customary this research effort is China centered drawing on Chinese sources including government and organizational documents private papers and interviews. The essays are organized into four major sections: Christianity's role in Qing society including local conflicts 6 essays; ethnicity 3 essays; women 5 essays; and indigenization of the Christian effort 6 essays. The editor has provided sectional introductions to highlight the major themes in each section as well as a general Introduction.
