

A woman with dark hair, wearing a white dress, is seated at a wooden table. She is looking down at a small, ornate plate of food on the table. The plate has a blue and white floral pattern. The background is slightly blurred, showing a window and some indoor plants. The overall mood is quiet and contemplative.

Playing in the White Stephanie Li, 2015 The postwar period witnessed an outpouring of white life novels that is texts by African American writers focused almost exclusively on white characters Almost every major mid twentieth century black writer including Zora Neale Hurston Richard Wright Ann Petry and James Baldwin published one of these anomalous texts Controversial since their publication in the 1940s and 50s these novels have since fallen into obscurity given the challenges they pose to traditional conceptions of the African American literary canon Playing in the White Black Writers White Subjects aims to bring these neglected novels back into conversations about the nature of African American literature and the unique expectations imposed upon black texts In a series of nuanced readings Li demonstrates how postwar black novelists were at the forefront of what is now commonly understood as whiteness studies Novels like Hurston s Seraph on the Suwanee and Wright s

Savage Holiday once read as abdications of the political imperative of African American literature are revisited with an awareness of how whiteness signifies in multivalent ways that critique America's abiding racial hierarchies. These novels explore how this particular racial construction is freighted with social power and narrative meaning. Whiteness repeatedly figures in these texts as a set of expectations that are nearly impossible to fulfill. By describing characters who continually fail at whiteness, white life novels ask readers to reassess what race means for all Americans. Along with its close analysis of key white life novels, Playing in the White by Black Writers also provides important historical context to understand how these texts represented the hopes and anxieties of a newly integrated nation.

This collection offers a follow up to the first collection of essays Revisiting Slave Narratives: Les Avatars des récits d'esclaves 2005, whose purpose was to bring together African American and Caribbean neo slave novels. In 2007, the year of the bicentennial anniversary of the official abolition of the transatlantic slave trade in the British colonial Empire, the memorialisation and commemoration events should not obliterate the fact that through the prism of slave narratives and neo slave novels, it is our present that is at stake. In order to show how our societies and minds still need to be reexamined, the essays in this collection examine books of fiction by Andrzej Brink, Octavia Butler, Barbara Chase Riboud, Cristina Garcia, Edward P. Jones, Paule Marshall, Phyllis Perry, Susan Straight, and books of non-fiction by Malcolm X or John Edgar Wideman, as well as works by poets like Fred D. Aguiar or Marilyn Nelson, by playwrights like Robbie McCauley, Derek Walcott or August Wilson, and by visual artists like David Boxer, Christopher Cozier, Glenn Ligon or Kara Walker.
