

Water Essay: The Importance of Water

People extremely need water. It is the second after air vital element which is necessary for living. Nobody will deny this fact. It is very interesting that a man consists of 80% of water. So, we almost made of water and still need it. On the other side, it is a very logical situation. We are filled with a fuel which is water, so in time we lose it. For proper functioning we have to fill again our body with the fuel.

Water pollution essay.

Many people worldwide often underestimate the importance of water cleanliness. We are used to taking everything we have for granted without giving any second thoughts about the origins of things we all have, use, and consume during our life expectancy. We are so much accustomed to living in the present that we completely disregard any concerns about the future of succeeding generations and our planet as well.

With this incorrectly formed mindset, we usually are not afraid to litter and pollute the very precious resources that we cannot live without, like water or air that we breathe in. This destructive mentality is hard to combat, and it is equally hard to persuade the mind-numbed masses to change the ways we are usually using to receive and preserve what nature is giving us.

The damage we cause to the water resources becomes more and more evident with each passing day. However, we continue to pollute the Earth with our industries and poor lifestyle choices and decidedly push the blame on everything but ourselves. This poor judgment will only lead to the horrifying and inevitable demise of humankind in the future.

Therefore, the only way to escape this terrible fate is to raise awareness about the problem of pollution worldwide. Even if you are only a student, you can base your essay on this particular topic and try to convince the masses that if the corruption of the water resources is going to continue, we as a whole population will face a complete annihilation caused by our own hands and poorly made decisions.
