A Review Of The Sandia Science And Technology Park Initiative:

Industry-Laboratory Partnerships National Research Council, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy, 1999-09-17 The Sandia National Laboratories asked the Board on Science Technology and Economic Policy STEP to hold a one day symposium to review Sandia's proposal to develop a science and technology park. In light of the importance of industry laboratory cooperation for the STEP Board's project on Government Industry Partnerships for the Development of New Technologies the Board convened a workshop bringing together executive branch officials congressional staff representatives from the private sector and regional economists to discuss the Sandia S T park initiative. The Sandia S T Park which Sandia National Laboratories the City of Albuquerque and the State of New Mexico are jointly developing is a 285 acre site located adjacent to Sandia National Laboratories. Groundbreaking for the park took place in May 1999

Understanding Research, Science and Technology Parks National Research Council, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy, Committee on Comparative Innovation Policy: Best Practice for the 21st Century, 2009-09-08 Many nations are currently adopting a variety of directed strategies to launch and support research parks often with significant financial commitments and policy support. By better understanding how research parks of other nations operate we can seek to improve the scale and contributions of parks in the U S. To that end the National Academies convened an international conference on global best practices in research parks. This volume a report of the conference includes discussion of the diverse roles that research parks in both universities and laboratories play in national innovation systems. The presentations identify common challenges and demonstrate substantial differences in research park programs around the world

Rising to the Challenge National Research Council, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy, Committee on Comparative National Innovation Policies: Best Practice for the 21st Century, 2012-08-06 America's position as the source of much of the world's global innovation has been the foundation of its economic vitality and military power in the post war. No longer is U S pre eminence assured as a place to turn laboratory discoveries into new commercial products companies industries and high paying jobs. As the pillars of the U S innovation system erode through wavering financial and policy support the rest of the world is racing to improve its capacity to generate new technologies and products attract and grow existing industries and build positions in the high technology industries of tomorrow. Rising to the Challenge U S Innovation Policy for Global Economy emphasizes the importance of sustaining global leadership in the commercialization of innovation which is vital to America's security its role as a world power and the welfare of its people. The second decade of the 21st century is witnessing the rise of a global competition that is based on innovative advantage. To this end both advanced as well as emerging nations are developing and pursuing policies and programs that are in many cases less constrained by ideological limitations on the role of government and the concept of free market economics The rapid transformation of the global innovation landscape presents tremendous challenges as well as important opportunities for the United States This report argues that far more vigorous attention be paid to capturing the outputs of innovation the commercial products the industries and particularly high quality jobs to restore full employment America s economic and national security future depends on our succeeding in this endeavor

Clustering for 21st Century Prosperity National Research Council,Policy and Global Affairs,Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy,Committee on Competing in the 21st Century: Best Practice in State and Regional Innovation Initiatives,2012-10-14 Responding to the challenges of fostering regional growth and employment in an increasingly competitive global economy many U S states and regions have developed programs to attract and grow companies as well as attract the talent and resources necessary to develop regional innovation clusters These state and regionally based initiatives have a broad range of goals and increasingly include larger resources commitments often with a sectoral focus and often in partnership with foundations and universities Recent studies

however have pointed out that many of these efforts lack the scale and the steady commitment needed for success This has prompted new initiatives to coordinate and concentrate investments from a variety of federal agencies to develop research parks business incubators and other strategies to encourage entrepreneurship and high tech development in the nation s regions Understanding the nature of innovation clusters and public policies associated with successful cluster development is therefore of current relevance Clustering for 21st Century Prosperity identifies best practices with regard to goals structures instruments modes of operation synergies across private and public programs funding mechanisms and levels and evaluation efforts The committee under the Board on Science Technology and Economic Policy STEP is reviewing selected state and regional efforts to capitalize on federal and state investments in areas of critical national needs This review includes both efforts to strengthen existing industries as well as specific technology focus areas such as nanotechnology stem cells and advanced energy in order to better understand program goals challenges and accomplishments As part of this study the committee is convening a series of public workshops and symposia involving responsible local state and federal officials and other stakeholders Drawing from discussions at these symposia fact finding meetings and commissioned analyses of existing state and regional programs and technology focus areas the committee will subsequently produce a final report with findings and recommendations focused on lessons issues and opportunities for complementary U S policies created by these state and regional initiatives Is America losing its lead in high-tech United States. Government as Entrepreneur Albert N. Link,Jamie R. Link,2009-08-26 Government acts as entrepreneur when its involvement in market activities is both innovative and characterized by entrepreneurial risk Thinking of government as entrepreneur is a unique lens through which the authors of this book examine a specific subset of U S government policy actions As such their viewpoint underscores the purposeful intent of government its ability to act in new and innovative ways and its willingness to undertake policy actions that have uncertain outcomes Viewing particular policy actions through an entrepreneurial lens is useful in two broad dimensions First it underscores the forward looking nature of policy makers as well as the need to evaluate the social outputs and outcomes of their behavior in terms of broad spillover impacts Second government acting as entrepreneur parallels in concept similar activities that occur in the private sector Government as Entrepreneur is the first broad effort to emphasize the entrepreneurial aspects of governments It is also the first systematic treatment of U S innovation policies to promote the formation of strategic research partnerships It will foster a new perspective on the role of government and how incentives for government to act entrepreneurially might be institutionalized it will serve as a vehicle for policy makers and scholars to think about the entrepreneurial actors in an economy in a new way Science and Government Report ,1999 State of Innovation Fred L. Block,Matthew R.

Keller,2011 Provides an account of the depth magnitude and structure of the U S government s role in the innovation economy A cross disciplinary group of authors collectively document theorize and evaluate the decentralized set of agencies programs and policies at the core of the collaborative linkages between public agencies and the private industries at the forefront of the U S economy The authors address issues critical to the construction of newly responsible forward looking public policies how can we forge an innovation policy that is at once flexible effective and efficient as well as transparent and accountable They provide insights into where innovations come from and what government policies support a dynamic innovation economy They show how government programs and policies have underpinned technological innovation in the U S economy over the last four decades despite the strength of free market political rhetoric They explore the strengths and weaknesses of different policies and strategies for strengthening the innovative dynamics that support economic growth and competitiveness offering a vision for designing technology policies to fit a 21st century economy From publisher description

India's Changing Innovation System Committee on Comparative Innovation Policy: Best Practice for the 21st Century,Policy and Global Affairs,Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy,2007-08-02 As part of its review of Comparative National Innovation Policies Best Practice for the 21st Century the Board on Science Technology and Economic Policy convened a major symposium in Washington to examine the policy changes that have contributed to India s enhanced innovative capacity This major event organized in cooperation with the Confederation of Indian Industry was particularly timely given President Bush's March 2006 visit to India and the Joint Statement issued with the Indian government calling for strategic cooperation in innovation and the development of advanced technologies The conference which brought together leading figures from the public and private sectors from both India and the United States identified accomplishments and existing challenges in the Indian innovation system and reviewed synergies and opportunities for enhanced cooperation between the Indian and U.S. innovation systems This report on the conference contains three elements a summary of the key symposium presentations an introductory chapter analyzing the policy issues raised at the symposium and a research paper providing a detailed examination of India's knowledge economy placing it in terms of overall global trends and analyzing its challenges and opportunities
