Peter Burke

Annales School:

The Annales School André Burguière, 2009 The Annales school emerged in the late 1920s around the history journal Annales d'histoire économique et sociale This book examines the origins and evolution of a group which still widely influences the study and teaching of history Annales Stuart Clark, 1999 This collection reprints key articles written within the past 30 years on the Annales school their journal their influence on history historiography and other academic fields

Opponents of the Annales School Joseph Tendler, 2013-03-08 Based on analysis of archival and published sources Opponents of the Annales School examines for the first time those who have dared to criticise and ignore one of the most successful currents of thought in modern historiography It offers an original contribution to the understanding of an unavoidable chapter in modern intellectual history The French Historical Revolution Peter Burke, 1990 A remarkable amount of the most innovative significant and lasting historical writing of the twentieth century has been produced in France much of it the work of a group of historians associated with the journal Annales Founded in 1929 Annales promoted a new kind of history based on three central aims to substitute a problem orientated analytical history for a traditional narrative of events to embrace the history of the whole range of human activities rather than concentrate on political history and in order to achieve the first two aims to collaborate fully with other disciplines notably geography sociology psychology economics linguistics and anthropology The critical history describes analyzes and evaluates the achievements of the Annales school combining chronological and thematic approaches The author distinguishes three generations in the history of the Annales movement In the first phase from the 1920s to 1945 the movement was small radical and subverse fighting a guerrilla action against traditional political history and the history of events Its leaders and the founders of Annales were Lucien Febvre and Marc Bloch After the Second World War the movement's rebels took over the historical establishment During this second phase which lasted until about 1968 the movement was most nearly a school with distinctive concepts and methods and was presided over by the towering figure of Fernand Braudel The third phase of the movement which continues today is marked by fragmentation Its influence in France had become so great that it lost much of its distinctiveness and no strong figures appeared to give the movement the inspiration and direction that Febvre Bloch and Braudel had provided Some members of the group even returned to political history and to the narrative of events The cycle was complete the rebels became the establishment and were in turn rebelled against The Annales School and Archaeology John L. Bintliff, 1991 French Historical Method Traian Stoianovich, 2019-05-15 No detailed description available for French Historical Method The French Historical Revolution Peter Burke, 2015-01-20 This book provides a critical history of the movement associated with the journal Annales from its foundation in 1929 to the present This movement has been the single most important force in the development of what is sometimes called the new history Renowned cultural historian Peter Burke distinguishes between four main generations in the development of the Annales School The first generation included Lucien Febvre and

Marc Bloch who fought against the old historical establishment and founded the journal Annales to encourage interdisciplinary collaboration. The second generation was dominated by Fernand Braudel whose magnificent work on the Mediterranean has become a modern classic. The third generation, deeply associated with the cultural turn in historical scholarship, includes recently well-known historians such as Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, Jacques Le Goff, and Georges Duby. This new edition brings us right up to the present and contemplates the work of a fourth generation, including practitioners such as Roger Chartier, Serge Gruzinski, and Jacques Revel. This new generation continued much of the cultural focus of the previous Annales historians while diversifying further and becoming increasingly reflexive, a move that owes much to the sociocultural theories of Michel Foucault, Michel de Certeau, and Pierre Bourdieu. Wide-ranging yet concise, this new edition of a classic work of analysis of one of the most important historical movements of the twentieth century will be welcomed by students of history and other social sciences and by the interested general reader.

The French Historical Revolution Peter Burke, 2013-04-29. This book provides a critical history of the movement associated with the journal Annales from its foundation in 1929 to the present. Burke argues that this movement has been the single most important force in the development of what is sometimes called the new history. Burke distinguishes three main generations in the development of the Annales School. The first generation included Lucien Febvre and Marc Bloch who fought against the old historical establishment and founded the journal Annales. The second generation was dominated by Braudel whose magnificent work on the Mediterranean has become a modern classic. The third generation includes well-known contemporary historians such as Duby, Le Goff, and Le Roy Ladurie. Wide-ranging and yet concise, this is an accessible examination of one of the most important historical movements of the twentieth century.

Archaeological Theory Norman Yoffee, Andrew Sherratt, 1993-07-22. This volume assesses the real achievements of archaeology in increasing an understanding of the past. Without rejecting the insights either of traditional or more recent approaches, it considers the issues raised in current claims and controversies about what is appropriate theory for archaeology. The first section looks at the process of theory building and at the sources of the ideas employed. The following studies examine questions such as the interplay between expectation and evidence in ideas of human origins, social role, and material practice in the formation of the archaeological record, and how the rise of states should be conceptualised. Further papers cover issues of ethnoarchaeology, visual symbols, and conflicting claims to ownership of the past. The conclusion is that archaeologists need to be equally wary of naive positivism in the guise of scientific procedure and of speculation about the unrecorded intentions of prehistoric actors.

New History in France François Dosse, 1994.

The Selected Writings of Marc Bloch Iona Singh, 2025-02-20.

This book brings a selection of the influential writings of Marc Bloch into the English language largely for the very first time Chronologically arranged to trace the developmental arc of Bloch's historical philosophy the translations in The Selected Writings of Marc Bloch offer an illuminating insight into the theories of a pioneer historian and original founder of the renowned Annales school of French social history The carefully curated translations in this volume reveal Bloch's thoughts on questions that historical studies has grappled with since the birth of the discipline Why should history exist at all What value does it have What exactly is a science of history What is the actual role of the historian in historical studies This collection presents Bloch's precise understanding of the contours of the discipline of history defined by the abutment and transgression of its borders by other subjects Consequently it provides a theoretical underpinning for multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary concepts via historical studies pulling into its fold diverse themes such as customs agriculture economics nutrition technology manners art fashion and countless other topics explored by Bloch himself in the process

Women and Gender in Medieval Europe Margaret Schaus, 2006 Publisher description

The Future of Post-Human History Peter Baofu, 2012-03-15 Is history really so universalistic even when similar events happen in different contexts that as George Santayana 1905 once famously wrote those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it This more universalistic view of history can be contrasted with an opposing view which is more relativistic in orientation as shown by the equally known remark by Winston Churchill that history is written by the victor to the extent that what is regarded as true in history today may not be so in another era when a new victor comes into power

THEX 2011 So which of the two views is correct here Contrary to these opposing views and other ideas as will be discussed in the book history in relation to both universality and relativity is neither possible or impossible nor desirable or undesirable to the extent that the respective ideologues on different sides would like us to believe Of course this challenge to the opposing views about history does not suggest that the study of history is controversial at best or that those fields related to the study of history like political science economics military studies anthropology sociology psychology philosophy theology literature ethics and so on should be rejected too Needless to say neither of these extreme views is reasonable Rather this book offers an alternative better way to understand the future of history especially in the dialectic context of universality and relativity while learning from different approaches in the literature but without favoring any one of them or integrating them since they are not necessarily compatible with each other Instead this book offers a new theory that is the multifold theory of history to go beyond the existing approaches in a novel way If successful this seminal project is to fundamentally change the way that we think about history from the combined perspectives of the mind nature society and culture with enormous implications for the human future and what the author originally called its post human fate

The Routledge Companion to East Asian Historiography Q. Edward Wang, 2025-12-19 The Routledge

Companion to East Asian Historiography offers a comprehensive exploration of the rich and dynamic traditions of historical writing in East Asia tracing their evolution across two millennia Rooted in the influential Chinese historiographical tradition and enriched by the distinctive contributions of Korean and Japanese scholars the book examines how these practices have adapted to cultural political and intellectual shifts The volume s four thematic sections explore the origins and evolution of historical writing modernity s transformative impact and the diverse methodologies shaping contemporary scholarship Key topics include the establishment of official historiography in imperial China the innovative practices of the Song dynasty and the influence of Western ideas and Marxist frameworks from the twentieth century Emerging areas such as social environmental gender and global history are examined alongside comparative studies bridging East Asian and Western traditions From ancient chronicles to modern interpretations shaped by nationalism Marxism scientism and globalization the volume highlights the interplay between tradition and innovation that defines East Asian historical culture As the first of its kind this companion serves as both an essential textbook and a scholarly reference for students and researchers interested in East Asian history global historiography social history intellectual history and postmodernism
