International Environmental Law-making and Diplomacy Tuomas Kuokkanen, Ed Couzens, Tuula Honkonen, Melissa Lewis, 2016-01-29 Bringing together contributions from diplomats UN agency officials lawyers and academics this book provides insight into the evolution of international environmental law diplomacy and negotiating techniques Based on first hand experiences and extensive research the chapters offer a blend of practice and theory history and analysis presenting a range of historical episodes and nuances and drawing lessons for future improvements to the processes of law making and diplomacy The book represents a synthesis of the most important messages to emerge from the annual course on Multilateral Environmental Agreements delivered to diplomats and negotiators from around the world for the last decade by the University of Eastern Finland and the United Nations Environment Programme The book will be of interest as a guide for negotiators and as a supplementary textbook and a reference volume for a wide range of students of law and environmental issues

Science-Based Lawmaking Dionysia-Theodora Avgerinopoulou, 2019-08-31 The Book takes the approach of a critique of the prevailing international environmental law making processes and their systemic shortcomings It aims to partly redesign the current international environmental law making system in order to promote further legislation and more effectively protect the natural environment and public health Through case studies and doctrinal analyses an array of initial questions guides the reader through a variety of factors influencing the development of International Environmental Law After a historical analysis commencing from the Platonic philosophy up to present the Book holds that some of the most decisive factors that could create an optimized law making framework include among others progressive voting processes science based secondary international environmental legislation new procedural rules that enhance the participation in the law making process by both experts and the public and also review the implementation compliance and validity of the science base of the laws The international community should develop new law making procedures that include expert opinion Current scientific uncertainties can be resolved either by policy choices or by referring to the so called sound science In formulating a new framework for environmental lawmaking processes it is essential to re shape the rules of procedure so that experts have greater participation in those in order to improve the quality of International Environmental Law faster than the traditional processes that mainly embrace political priorities generated by the States Science serves as one of the main tools that will create the next generation of International Environmental Law and help the world transition to a smart inclusive sustainable future

Multilateral Environmental Agreements and Compliance Anna Huggins, 2017-11-27 The adoption of administrative procedures in global governance has the potential to foster proper consideration of marginalized actors interests yet risks entrenching the dominance of the well resourced and powerful Accordingly this book proposes a new framework for evaluating the extent to which administrative procedures in the compliance systems of multilateral environmental agreements constrain power and promote regard for the interests of affected states which are frequently developing and transition countries This framework is applied to the compliance systems under the Montreal Protocol the Kyoto Protocol and CITES which address critical global environmental issues of ozone layer depletion climate change and trade in endangered species respectively The analysis shows that under certain conditions administrative procedures limit the influence of states asymmetric power on compliance deliberations Furthermore systematic adoption of these procedures increases the opportunities for affected states interests to be voiced and considered in compliance decision making processes
