

8 tips to help your child learn from their mistakes.

Ask them to talk out loud

Talking about our process out loud can help to clarify our thoughts and lead us towards new solutions by stimulating associative ideas in the brain. It can be an effective way for your child to fix their mistakes.

Explain that feedback is not criticism

Instead, feedback is a valuable way for your kids to learn and get smarter. And of course, be mindful of your tone, body language, and choice of words when you do give feedback.

Teach them that everyone makes mistakes

Nobody is perfect. We all make mistakes from time-to-time, and it can mean that we're challenging ourselves with something difficult. This takes a lot of courage.

Treat mistakes kindly

Learning can be hard enough as it is, without being reprimanded. If they make a mistake, gently ask how they might do it differently. Show them that your love isn't conditional.

Encourage mistakes!

A mistake is an opportunity to go back and figure out what went wrong, and how it can be fixed. This helps your child to develop a deeper understanding of the concept. They are a powerful tool for learning.

Don't rescue them

It can be tempting to swoop in and fix their mistakes, but they learn nothing that way. Instead, encourage them to try themselves first, or guide them if necessary. Similarly, if they ask for the right answer, help them reach the solution by themselves.

Time your feedback well

The best time to give feedback is when they're actively working through a problem. The problem will be fresh in their minds, and they can see your feedback in context.

Lead by example

Did you ever correct a big mistake and it led to good things? Tell them about it! It's crucial that they learn the value of making mistakes and correcting them.

The HM Learning and Study Skills Program Judy Tilton Brunner, Matthew S. Hudson, 2016-10-14 Level III Grades 11
13 The hm Learning and Study Skills Program Level III was designed to provide an introduction to learning and study skills for high school juniors and seniors and beginning college students through a series of activity oriented units. It is structured on the assumption that an activity oriented lesson is the most effective instructional strategy for the teaching of study skills more succinctly that learning by doing is the best way. Study smart! Learning and study skills are important for learning. They are methods and ways of doing things that help make learning easier. Understanding how to study can also facilitate learning by assisting students as they complete assignments correctly and efficiently during a specified period of time. Just like any other skill knowing how to learn and study proficiently must be learned and practiced over time. The Program has been designed to help students learn more efficiently and effectively.
