Urban Stormwater Management in the United States National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Water Science and Technology Board, Committee on Reducing Stormwater Discharge Contributions to Water Pollution, 2009-03-17 The rapid conversion of land to urban and suburban areas has profoundly altered how water flows during and following storm events putting higher volumes of water and more pollutants into the nation's rivers lakes and estuaries These changes have degraded water quality and habitat in virtually every urban stream system The Clean Water Act regulatory framework for addressing sewage and industrial wastes is not well suited to the more difficult problem of stormwater discharges This book calls for an entirely new permitting structure that would put authority and accountability for stormwater discharges at the municipal level A number of additional actions such as conserving natural areas reducing hard surface cover e.g. roads and parking lots and retrofitting urban areas with features that hold and treat stormwater are recommended

Cities of the Future Vladimir Novotny, Paul Brown, 2007-09-04 This book is developed from and includes the presentations of leading international experts and scholars in the 12-14 July 2006 Wingspread Workshop With urban waters as a focal point this book will explore the links between urban water quality and hydrology and the broader concepts of green cities and smart growth It also addresses legal and social barriers to urban ecological sustainability and proposes practical ways to overcome those barriers Cities of the Future features chapters containing visionary concepts on how to ensure that cities and their water resources become ecologically sustainable and are able to provide clean water for all beneficial uses The book links North American and Worldwide experience and approaches The book is primarily a professional reference aimed at a wide interdisciplinary audience including universities consultants environmental advocacy groups and legal environmental professionals
