The Hegemon's Tool Kit Rebecca Davis Gibbons, 2022-07-15 At a moment when the nuclear nonproliferation regime is under duress Rebecca Davis Gibbons provides a trenchant analysis of the international system that has for more than fifty years controlled the spread of these catastrophic weapons The Hegemon's Tool Kit details how that regime works and how disastrously it might falter In the early nuclear age experts anticipated that all technologically capable states would build these powerful devices That did not happen Widespread development of nuclear arms did not occur in large part because a global nuclear nonproliferation regime was created By the late 1960s the United States and the Soviet Union had drafted the Treaty on the Non Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons NPT and across decades the regime has expanded with more agreements and more nations participating As a result in 2022 only nine states possess nuclear weapons Why do most states in the international system adhere to the nuclear nonproliferation regime The answer lies Gibbons asserts in decades of painstaking efforts undertaken by the US government As the most powerful state during the nuclear age the United States had many tools with which to persuade other states to join or otherwise support nonproliferation agreements The waning of US global influence Gibbons shows in The Hegemon's Tool Kit is a key threat to the nonproliferation regime So too is the deepening global divide over progress on nuclear disarmament To date the Chinese government is not taking significant steps to support the nuclear nonproliferation regime and as a result the regime may face a harmful leadership gap
