^ ^ (those are underscores)

Click Run Now!

Move the compass around the bar magnet.

1. Which pole of the magnet does the red compass needle point towards?
- The white south pole.

Click "Flip Polarity" in the right menu.

2. Now which pole of the magnet does the red needle point towards? Does it still point toward the same pole?
- It still points towards the south pole.
3. This means that the red part of the needle is a north pole.

Click Reset All in the right menu.

Check the box "Show Field Meter" in the right menu. A blue box should appear. This measures the Magnetic Field around the magnet (which is known as 'B'). The Magnetic field is measured in Gauss (G). Move the field meter around the magnet.

4. Does the field increase or decrease as you move the meter closer to the magnet?
- It increases as it gets closer.

Move your meter so that it is about one inch (on your computer screen) away from the North end of your magnet.

5. What is the magnitude of field strength (B) in Gauss?
- 2 G

Now move the meter the same distance away from the South end of your magnet.

6. Is the amount of magnetic field the same for both North and South ends of a magnet?
- Yes, 2 G

At the top left of the simulation window, click the "Electromagnet" tab. You should see a battery connected to a wire with loops that has current running through it. Move your compass around the electromagnet.

7. Is the left side of the electromagnet the North end or the South end? How do you know?
- South, because the north side of the compass points to it.
