Animals and Science Maggie Bolton,Cathrine Degnen,2020-05-15 What exactly does a focus on animals bring to anthropological studies of science This is a question that the various contributors to this edited collection set out to answer This range of studies explores the intersections between animals and science across different ethnographic settings and in different historical periods The contributions to this volume look at what it means to be human the place of human beings vis vis other species on this planet our ideas of what nature and culture are the limits to our ideas of kinship the ethical debates that surround science together with their interpretation by both scientific communities and the lay public and the moral comportment of scientists Through focusing on science our contributors not only demonstrate that people elsewhere have different relationships with and knowledge of beasts and that different possibilities of relating to animals exist within our own Western worldview but further suggest that our Western knowledge about animals and their positions in society arrived at through Western science and the social sciences is itself in need of rethinking to incorporate other ways of knowing This volume contends that accounts in which animals meet science provide important theoretical insights for anthropologists and can set new agendas for theory in anthropology and science studies

Humans and Other Animals Prof. Samantha Hurn,2012-04-20 What are our attitudes towards other animals and how does this affect our humanity This work of anthrozoology explores the myriad and evolving ways in which humans and animals interact the divergent cultural constructions of humanity and animality found around the world and individual experiences of other animals This book looks at case studies covering blood sports such as hunting fishing and bull fighting pet keeping and petishism eco tourism and wildlife conservation working animals and animals as food It addresses the idea of animal exploitation raised by the animal rights movements as well as the anthropological implications of changing attitudes towards animal personhood and the rise of a posthumanist philosophy in the social sciences more generally Sentient Entanglements and Ruptures in the Americas: Human-Animal Relations in the Amazon, Andes, and Arctic, 2023-08-28 This book draws together anthropological studies of human animal relations among Indigenous Peoples in three regions of the Americas the Andes Amazonia and the American Arctic Despite contrasts between the ecologies of the different regions it finds useful comparisons between the ways that lives of human and non human animals are entwined in shared circumstances and sentient entanglements While studies of all three regions have been influential in scholarship on human animal relations the regions are seldom brought together This volume highlights the value of examining partial connections across the American continent between human and other than human lives Llamas beyond the Andes Marcia Stephenson, 2023-12-12 Camelids are vital to the cultures and economies of the Andes The animals have also been at the heart of ecological and social catastrophe Europeans overhunted wild vicu a and guanaco and imposed husbandry and breeding practices that decimated llama and alpaca flocks that had been successfully tended by Indigenous peoples for generations Yet the colonial encounter with these animals was not limited to the New World Llamas beyond the Andes tells the five hundred year history of animals removed from their native habitats and transported overseas Initially Europeans prized camelids for the bezoar stones found in their guts boluses of ingested matter that were thought to have curative powers Then the animals themselves were shipped abroad as exotica As Europeans and US Americans came to recognize the economic value of camelids new questions emerged What would these novel sources of protein and fiber mean for the sheep industry And how best to cultivate herds Andeans had the expertise but knowledge sharing was rarely easy

Marcia Stephenson explores the myriad scientific commercial and cultural interests that have attended camelids globally making these animals a critical meeting point for diverse groups from the North and South The Andean World Linda J. Seligmann, Kathleen S. Fine-Dare, 2018-11-08 This comprehensive reference offers an authoritative overview of Andean lifeways It provides valuable historical context and demonstrates the relevance of learning about the Andes in light of contemporary events and debates The volume covers the ecology and pre Columbian history of the region and addresses key themes such as cosmology aesthetics gender and household relations modes of economic production exchange and consumption postcolonial legacies identities political organization and movements and transnational interconnections With over 40 essays by expert contributors that highlight the breadth and depth of Andean worlds this is an essential resource for students and scholars alike Anthropology and Climate Change Susan A. Crate, Mark Nuttall, 2023-11-30 In this third edition of Anthropology and Climate Change Susan Crate and Mark Nuttall offer a collection of chapters that examine how anthropologists work on climate change issues with their collaborators both in academic research and practicing contexts and discuss new developments in contributions to policy and adaptation at different scales Building on the first edition s pioneering focus on anthropology s burgeoning contribution to climate change research policy and action as well as the second edition's focus on transformations and new directions for anthropological work on climate change this new edition reveals the extent to which anthropologists' contributions are considered to be critical by climate scientists, policymakers, affected communities and other rights holders. Drawing on a range of ethnographic and policy issues, this book highlights the work of anthropologists in the full range of contexts as scholars, educators and practitioners from academic institutions to government bodies, international science agencies and foundations working in interdisciplinary research teams and with community research partners. The contributions to this new edition showcase important new academic research as well as applied and practicing approaches. They emphasize human agency in the archaeological record, the rapid development in the last decade of community-based and community-driven research, and disaster research provide rich ethnographic insight into worldmaking practices, interventions and collaborations, and discuss how and in what ways anthropologists work in policy areas and engage with regional and global assessments. This new edition is essential for established scholars and for students in anthropology and a range of other disciplines, including environmental studies, as well as for practitioners who engage with anthropological studies of climate change in their work. The Crisis of the Self in the Age of Information Raymond Barglow, 1994. This text draws on the experiences, hopes and dreams of computer users to explore the personal, psychological and philosophical implications for a post-industrial information technology-led society. Indian Books in Print, 2003.

International Journal of Health Services, 1998   The Ecologist, 1996   alternative press index ALTERNATIVE PRESS INDEX, 2002   Cultural and Spiritual Values of Biodiversity United Nations Environment Programme, 1999. Weaving together philosophical, historical, legal, scientific and personal viewpoints, this book gives a rich sample of the vast web which makes up our cultural, spiritual and social diversity. The volume highlights the central importance of cultural and spiritual values in the appreciation and preservation of all life and argues that these values give us a true reflection of worth. It demonstrates how many cultures see Nature as an extension of society and how sensitive stewardship is an integral part of existence. The book covers language and how cognition and speech encode indigenous knowledge systems, are critical for preservation of diversity, the complex issue of indigenous people and the problems of preserving their relationships both with and within their societies, voices of the world, expressions of concern and disquiet over the declining world diversity, holistic health practices where environment and diet are integrated into indigenous medical health systems, the importance of developing effective intellectual property rights and territorial and land rights to enhance and maintain local control. This book arose out of the Global Biodiversity Assessment GBA, a massive review of current knowledge in the broad field of biological diversity, commissioned by United Nations Environmental Programme UNEP. Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2003. Books In Print 2004-2005 Ed Bowker Staff, Staff Bowker, Ed, 2004. Library Journal, 2002. International Books in Print, 1986. The Publishers Weekly, 1993. APAIS, Australian Public Affairs Information Service, 1995.
