Thomas Berker

After Method Mess In Social Science Research:

After Method John Law, 2004-08-12 John Law argues that methods don't just describe social realities but are also involved in creating them. The implications of this argument are highly significant. If this is the case methods are always political and it raises the question of what kinds of social realities we want to create. Most current methods look for clarity and precision. It is usually said that only poor research produces messy findings and the idea that things in the world might be fluid, elusive or multiple is unthinkable. Law's startling argument is that this is wrong and it is time for a new approach. Many realities he says are vague and ephemeral. If methods want to know and help to shape the world then they need to reinvent themselves and their politics to deal with mess. That is the challenge. Nothing less will do.

Search After Method

Julie Laplante, Ari Gadsman, Willow Scobie, 2020-09-11 Reigniting a tradition of learning from experience. Search After Method is a plea for livelier forms of anthropology. The anthropologists in the collection recount their experiences of working in the field, framed within a range of anthropological debates. The book thus provides accounts of lived experiences from both extensive and contemporary fieldwork as well as offering solutions for how to evolve the art of anthropological research beyond what is currently imagined.

Handbook of Interpretive Research Methods in the Social Sciences Margarethe Kusenbach, Michaela Pfadenhauer, 2025-12-16 This comprehensive Handbook provides interdisciplinary coverage of qualitative inquiry and interpretive research methods in the social sciences. Margarethe Kusenbach and Michaela Pfadenhauer adopt an innovative approach by connecting research practice with conceptual principles and strong theoretical grounding.

After the "Speculative Turn": Realism, Philosophy, and Feminism Katerina Kolozova, Eileen A. Joy, 2016 Recent forms of realism in continental philosophy that are habitually subsumed under the category of speculative realism a denomination referring to rather heterogeneous strands of philosophy bringing together object oriented ontology OOO non standard philosophy or non philosophy the speculative realist ideas of Quentin Meillassoux and Marxism have provided grounds for the much needed critique of culturalism in gender theory and the authority with which post structuralism has dominated feminist theory for decades. This publication aims to bring forth some of the feminist debates prompted by the so called speculative turn while demonstrating that there has never been a niche of speculative realist feminism. Whereas most of the contributions featured in this collection provide a theoretical approach invoking the necessity of foregrounding new forms of realism for a feminism beyond gender as culture some of the essays tackle OOO only to invite a feminist critical challenge to its paradigm while others refer to some extent to non philosophy or the new materialisms but are not reducible to either of the two. We have invited essays from intellectual milieus outside the Anglo Saxon academic center bringing together authors from Serbia, Slovenia, France, Ireland, the UK and Canada aiming to promote feminist internationalism rather than a generous act of cultural inclusion.

Actor-Network Theory and Technology Innovation: Advancements and New Concepts Tatnall,

Arthur, 2010-11-30 Actor Network Theory and Technology Innovation Advancements and New Concepts provides a comprehensive look at the development of actor network theory itself as well as case studies of its use to assist in the explanation of various socio technical phenomena. This book includes topics relating to technological innovation both those using actor network theory as an explanatory framework and those using other approaches. It is an excellent source of information regarding ANT as an approach to technological innovation and its link to ICT Information Communication Technology. Approaching Historical Sources in their Contexts Sarah Barber, Corinna M. Peniston-Bird, 2020-04-13 In Approaching Historical Sources in Their Contexts 12 academics examine how space, time and performance interact to co-create context for source analysis. The chapters cover 2000 years and stretch across the Americas and Europe. They are grouped into three themes with the first four exploring aspects of movement within and around an environment, buildings, the tension between habitat and tourist landscape, cemeteries and war memorials. Three chapters look at different aspects of performance, masque and opera in which performance is reconstructed from several media, radio and television. The final group of chapters consider objects and material culture in which both spatial placement and performance influence how they might be read as historical sources. Archaeological finds and their digital management, the display of objects in heritage locations, clothing, photograph albums and scrapbooks. Supported by a range of case studies, the contributors embed lessons and methodological approaches within their chapters that can be adapted and adopted by those working with similar sources, offering students both a theoretical and practical demonstration of how to analyse sources within their contexts. Drawing out common threads to help those wishing to illuminate their own historical investigation, this book encourages a broad and inclusive approach to the physical and social contexts of historical evidence for those undertaking source analysis.

Doomed to Repeat? Sean Brawley, 2009 The essays in this collection examine the place of history in terrorism studies and in contemporary discussions on terrorism and counter terrorism. This volume marks an effort by a group of scholars and practitioners to provide a justification for the better understanding of Terrorism's past and the importance of this past for today and tomorrow. The collection is divided into four sections. Section One places Terrorism Studies and the study of history in context and considers the connections between these fields of study. Section Two is written by non historians and practitioners who have seen the importance of historical context and perspective in the understanding of current events. Section Three provides case studies that explore the history of terrorism and politically motivated violence. Section Four places concerns about terrorism in regional and foreign policy context. This collection helps us advance our understanding of terrorism beyond simplistic and dichotomist assertions about them and us. Taken together these essays highlight the importance of analyzing rather than assuming. Chris Dixon Professor School of History, Philosophy, Religion and Classics The University of Queensland Australia. This collection could not come at a more opportune time given the current preoccupation in government with Terrorism. It will not only contribute substantially to the current scholarship on the subject but will set a benchmark by which future researchers will have to measure themselves It will furthermore become a reference for both students and experts in the field Philip Dwyer Director Social and Cultural Conflict Research Group University of Newcastle Australia In this volume the subject matter ranges widely over the field including important contributions on some of the major areas of international conflict of the last twenty years By paying attention to national regional and international phenomena this collection will provide access to a breadth of historical perspectives and approaches that is uncommon in this field of studies Mark Finnane Professor ARC Centre of Excellence in Policing and Security Griffith University Australia
