Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois*, 127 F.3d 1179 (7th Cir. 1999), the court found that a plaintiff's failure to disclose his disability to his employer was an aggravating circumstance that precluded him from being considered a "qualified individual" under the ADA. The court found that the plaintiff's failure to disclose his disability was a "material" factor in the employer's decision not to hire him. The court also found that the plaintiff's failure to disclose his disability was a "material" factor in the employer's decision to fire him. The court concluded that the plaintiff's failure to disclose his disability was an aggravating circumstance that precluded him from being considered a "qualified individual" under the ADA.
