Towards a Software Factory M. Van Genuchten, 2012-12-06 The subject of this book is the control of software engineering The rapidly increasing demand for software is accompanied by a growth in the number of products on the market as well as their size and complexity Our ability to control software engineering is hardly keeping pace with this growth As a result software projects are often late software products sometimes lack the required quality and the productivity improvements achieved by software engineering are insufficient to keep up with the demand This book describes ways to improve software engineering control It argues that this should be expanded to include control of the development maintenance and reuse of software thus making it possible to apply many of the ideas and concepts that originate in production control and quality control The book is based on research and experience accumulated over a number of years During this period I had two employers Eindhoven University of Technology and Philips Electronics Research is not a one man activity and I would like to thank the following persons for their contributions to the successful completion of this project First and foremost my Ph D advisers Theo Bemelmans Hans van Vliet and Fred Heemstra whose insights and experience proved invaluable at every stage Many thanks are also due to Rob Kusters and Fred Heemstra for their patience in listening to my sometimes wild ideas and for being such excellent colleagues Bestuurlijke informatiesystemen en automatisering

Business Process Re-engineering B. C. Glasson, 1994 The focus of this publication is BPR Business Process Re engineering and the challenges and opportunities it brings to the field of information systems The key to successful BPR from an information systems perspective is perceived to lie in integration Papers included in the book accordingly consider the following three areas both individually and in combination Business Process Re engineering Information Systems Opportunities or Challenges Information Systems Integration Business Process Re engineering is the restructuring of organizational processes through the innovative use of information systems and technology IS T The aim is to refit or revamp an organization to survive today's economic downturn and to emerge refreshed and re vitalized to meet its social obligations and accept its economic challenges into the next century Information systems opportunities and challenges facing business process re engineers revolve around integration It is believed that unidimensional specialized segmented and piecemeal approaches have been adopted in IS T which do not work If IS T is to achieve its full potential for social and economic good there is little need for holistic multi dimensional comprehensive approaches IS T researchers and practitioners should look to integrate their efforts with those of others in at least three ways Integrating theory and practice will encourage relevant research and more rapid technology transfer Integrating technical and social aspects will help alleviate those implementation issues that have bedevilled IS T for decades Integrating applications and subject matter will result in synergistic multi disciplinary approaches and solutions combining the interests of the many specialists involved in the field The broad ranging examination of these factors offered by the book highlights the overall need for information systems and technology integration if active responses to the opportunities and challenges presented by Business Process Re engineering are to be achieved
