course of the twentieth century debates on the family and its role the relationship between the individual and society and individual decision making rights as well as their denial or curtailment Unpacking these issues in a vivid and innovative analysis the book recounts the prehistory of current conflicts over the family and gender while illuminating the relationship between social change normative shifts and the counter movements spawned in response to them Radiation Nation

Natasha Zaretsky,2018-02-13 On March 28 1979 the worst nuclear reactor accident in U S history occurred at the Three Mile Island power plant in Central Pennsylvania Radiation Nation tells the story of what happened that day and in the months and years that followed as local residents tried to make sense of the emergency The near meltdown occurred at a pivotal moment when the New Deal coalition was unraveling trust in government was eroding conservatives were consolidating their power and the political left was becoming marginalized Using the accident to explore this turning point Natasha Zaretsky provides a fresh interpretation of the era by disclosing how atomic and ecological imaginaries shaped the conservative ascendancy Drawing on the testimony of the men and women who lived in the shadow of the reactor Radiation Nation shows that the region's citizens especially its mothers grew convinced that they had sustained radiological injuries that threatened their reproductive futures Taking inspiration from the antiwar environmental and feminist movements women at Three Mile Island crafted a homegrown ecological politics that wove together concerns over radiological threats to the body the struggle over abortion and reproductive rights and eroding trust in authority This politics was shaped above all by what Zaretsky calls biotic nationalism a new body centered nationalism that imagined the nation as a living mortal being and portrayed sickened Americans as evidence of betrayal The first cultural history of the accident Radiation Nation reveals the surprising ecological dimensions of post Vietnam conservatism while showing how growing anxieties surrounding bodily illness infused the political realignment of the 1970s in ways that blurred any easy distinction between left and right Sexuality, nearly complete control over what had become an entirely medicalized procedure Then seemingly out of nowhere an explosion of new alternative organizations publications and conferences cropped up documenting a very different demographic trend by 1977 the percentage of out of hospital births had more than doubled Home birth was making a comeback but why The executive director of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists publicly noted in 1977 the rising tide of demand for home delivery describing it as an anti intellectual anti science revolt A quiet revolution spread across cities and suburbs towns and farms as individuals challenged legal institutional and medical protocols by choosing unlicensed midwives to catch their babies at home Coming Home analyzes the ideas values and experiences that led to this quiet revolution and its long term consequences for our understanding of birth medicine and culture Who were these self proclaimed midwives and how did they learn their trade Because the United States had virtually eliminated midwifery in most areas by the mid twentieth century most of them had little knowledge of or exposure to the historic practice drawing primarily on obstetrical texts trial and error and sometimes instruction from aging home birth physicians to learn their craft While their constituents were primarily drawn from the educated white middle class their model of care which ultimately drew on the wisdom and practice of a more diverse global pool of midwives had the potential to transform birth practices for all women both in and out of the hospital
