Building Evaluation For Adaptive Reuse And Preservation:

Building Evaluation for Adaptive Reuse and Preservation J. Stanley Rabun, Richard Miles Kelso, 2009-01-09 This book is designed for architects and engineers who need to evaluate existing buildings for a new use or for continuing a current use. It details each step of the evaluation process using an easy to follow and easy to implement approach that greatly reduces the possibility of unexpected costs and setbacks. Moreover, the book covers every part of the building itself from interior and exterior structures to systems and materials. Illustrations throughout the book will help you visualize and perform key procedures. In addition, the authors examine building evaluation issues for structures of different scales such as medium and small commercial structures and residential buildings. Most important, the authors help you assess the financial viability of a proposed adaptive reuse or preservation project, helping you and potential investors decide whether the proposed project offers a desired return on investment. Feasibility Assessment Manual for Reusing Historic Buildings Donovan Rypkema, 2015-12-29 The rehabilitation of adaptive reuse of historic buildings can be a challenge. This manual provides a step by step process that takes the seemingly incomprehensible to the practical and implementable. The manual, formerly published by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, has been used by real estate practitioners, community development corporations, local preservation organizations, and as an applied text book at both the graduate and undergraduate level. The series of forms, checklists, analytical matrices, and source references lead the user to make sound and rational decisions throughout the historic rehabilitation process.

Preservation Beyond Designation: the Adaptive Reuse of Noble Elementary School Rachel M. Stucke (|eauthor), 2018 Adaptive reuse is a preservation tool that goes beyond the bounds of historic designation via local or state landmark status or National Register of Historic Places distinction. It preserves buildings and the memories associated with them and at the same time provides economic, environmental, and social benefits. In the case of Noble Elementary School in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, adaptive reuse is currently one of the only options for its preservation due to its ineligibility for the National Register. This thesis unveils the history of Cleveland Heights, the Noble neighborhood, and Noble Elementary School; the feasibility assessment for Noble Elementary School based on Donovan Rypkema's Feasibility Assessment Manual for Reusing Historic Buildings; case studies and reuse examples that help determine possible reuse plans for Noble Elementary School and final recommendations Ultimately the feasibility assessment is a relevant planning tool that can help preserve the school beyond the realms of historic designation
