American Woman Suffrage Postcards A Study And Catalog:

American Woman Suffrage Postcards Kenneth Florey, 2016-04-29 American women's suffrage activists were fascinated with suffrage themed postcards. They collected them, exchanged them, wrote about them, used them as fundraisers, and organized postcard day campaigns. The cards they produced were imaginative and ideological, advancing arguments for the enfranchisement of women and responding to antisuffrage broadsides. Commercial publishers were also interested in suffrage cards, recognizing their profit potential. Their products though, were reactive rather than proactive, conveying stereotypes they assumed reflected public attitudes, often negative towards the movement. Cataloging approximately 700 examples, this study examines the visual rhetoric of suffrage postcards in the context of the movement itself and as part of the general history of postcards.

Library Literature H.W. Part of the problem is that such objects are scattered about in various collections and museums and can be difficult to access. Another is that most scholars do not have ready knowledge of the general nature and history of the type of objects: postcards, badges, sashes, toys, ceramics, sheet music, etc. that suffragists produced. Then new techniques in both printing and manufacturing created numerous possibilities for supporters to develop campaigns of visual rhetoric. This work analyzes 70 different categories of suffrage memorabilia while providing numerous images of relevant objects along the way and discussing these innovative production methods. Most important, this study looks at period accounts, often fascinating, of how, why, when, and where the memorabilia were used in both America and England.
