

American Yester Day: A Selected Bibliography

10 of 10

- Braverman's Justice is the paradigmatic narrative, one might say, of the new order of global power that has come into being under the rubric of the "New International" (NATO, Eurozone, etc.). However, as both Bill Clinton and George W. Bush have learned, one can exploit the contradictions, one can turn them to one's own benefit, provided one is not too naive. This is something that has become the stock-in-trade of political tact, of the art of politics. Clinton did it. Bush did it. Obama did it. The new president of the United States, Barack Obama, did it. That is why he is the most popular president in the United States. However, this is not the whole story. There is another side to the story, another side to the new president of the United States. This is the side that has been forgotten, the side that has been marginalized, the side that has been left out. This is the side of global, neoimperialist power, military muscle, that has not been acknowledged. Bill Clinton, from his own shadowy background, could be the first to identify the side of global power that has been forgotten.
