

AP Biology
Chapter 52
Intro to Ecology

1. What is the primary goal of ecology?
To understand the distribution and abundance of organisms.
2. For each level of organization, explain what the focus is.
  - a. Organismal
Researchers explore the morphological, physiological, and behavioral adaptations that allow individuals to live in a particular area.
  - b. Population
A group of individuals of the same species that lives in the same area at the same time. Biologists focus on how the number and distribution of individuals in a population change over time.
  - c. Community
This consists of populations of different species that interact with each other within a particular area. Community ecologists ask questions about the nature of the interactions between species and the consequences of those interactions.
  - d. Ecosystem
This is an extension of organismal, population, and community ecology. At this level, biologists study how nutrients and energy move among organisms and through the surrounding atmosphere and soil or water.
  - e. Global
The field of global ecology is growing rapidly as ecologists scramble to quantify the effects of human impacts on the biosphere. Humans are modifying landscapes and releasing massive amounts of energy and nutrients to the biosphere, causing changes that transcend individual ecosystems.
3. What is the purpose of conservation biology?
It is the effort to study, preserve, and restore threatened genetic diversity in populations, species diversity in communities, and ecosystem function.

How is it similar to being a doctor?
Conservation biologists are like physicians. But instead of prescribing treatments for sick people, they prescribe remedies for threatened environments to preserve biodiversity, clean air, pure water, and productive soils.
4. Biogeography___ is the study of how organisms are geographically distributed.
5. What is the range of an organism?
It is the geographic distribution of organisms. No one species can survive the full array of environmental conditions present on Earth.
6. With fitness trade-offs, organisms tend to be ___adapted___ to a ___limited___ set of abiotic factors. Every ___organism___ has a ___specific___ range of ___tolerance___ of ___abiotic___ conditions.
7. Explain the difference between abiotic and biotic factors. Give 2 examples of each.
Abiotic factors are the non-living things of an ecosystem, while biotic factors consist of the living things of an ecosystem. 2 examples of abiotic factors are wind and rain. 2 examples of biotic factors are plants and animals.
8. Explain why the changing of the earth influences species dispersal.
The earth influences species dispersal because individuals move from their place of origin to the location where they live and breed as adults. Additionally, the earth is constantly changing which also changes the
