

Government Policy Development Process With Best Practices

Guiding principles set in the methodology for policy development

Policy development is crucial to the proper functioning of local government. Developing and implementing policy is a continuous process that requires constant developing and reviewing. The following process helps the Inland River Trust develop their new policy:

01

Identify and Define Needs

Understand the purpose of policies and recognise problems that can be effectively handled by the new policy. Delegate responsibility to an individual, sub-committee or staff members, to to the policy development process.

02

Gather Information and Draft a policy

What are legal responsibilities? Can you use existing templates? Who will guide you? Prepare a draft policy with appropriate wording, length and complexity.

03

Consult with Stakeholders

Discuss the potential implications of the policy with supporters, staff, volunteers, management committee and service users. Review and get the policy approved by the Management Committee.

04

Implementing Policies

Where will the policy be implemented? Who will implement the policy? Who will develop implementation procedures. How will the policy be communicated and to whom? Does it require any training to support the implementation?

05

Monitor, Review, Revise

What reporting and monitoring systems are needed to implement and assess the policy.

The Dynamics of Bureaucracy in the US Government Samuel Workman,2015-04-16 This book develops a new theoretical perspective on bureaucratic influence and congressional agenda setting based on limited attention and government information processing Using a comprehensive new data set on regulatory policymaking across the entire federal bureaucracy Samuel Workman develops the theory of the dual dynamics of congressional agenda setting and bureaucratic problem solving as a way to understand how the US government generates information about and addresses important policy problems Key to the perspective is a communications framework for understanding the nature of information and signaling between the bureaucracy and Congress concerning the nature of policy problems Workman finds that congressional influence is innate to the process of issue shuffling issue bundling and the fostering of bureaucratic competition In turn bureaucracy influences the congressional agenda through problem monitoring problem definition and providing information that serves as important feedback in the development of an agenda
