potential partners around the world These functions are increasingly being given doctrinal definition and a larger role in U S military planning under the novel concept of shaping This volume is intended to explore the notion of shaping in its various aspects both generally and in several regional contexts The changing role of the regional COCOMs formerly CINCs over the last dozen years or so is the focus of a paper by General Anthony Zinni U S Marine Corps Ret who provides a characteristically frank and illuminating account of his own tenure as commander of the U S Central Command with responsibilities for the Persian Gulf and the greater Middle East Papers by Commander Alan Lee Boyer USN Ret and Stephen A Emerson examine maritime and regional security cooperation from the perspective of the U S European Command on the one hand and on the other the Combined Task Force Horn of Africa a joint organization headquartered in Djibouti that has played a critical role in recent years in strengthening the capabilities of countries throughout the region to improve their own security and counter terrorism

Building States While Fighting Terror Peter J. Quaranto, 2008 This report suggests that US policy in Somalia since 2001 represents many strong trends in US security thinking For instance there has been a revived emphasis on state stability and conversely a problematisation of state weakness as a threat US officials have focused on failed states such as Somalia as havens and recruiting grounds for terrorists Correspondingly state building has been declared a key tactic of counter terrorism US officials have argued that the best long term defence against terrorism is the existence of functional central governments especially those willing to cooperate with Washington Therefore the US State Department recently stated that the two pillars of state building and counter terrorism drive US policy in Somalia McCormack 2006 The purpose of this report is to consider the interaction of those pillars in policymaking and especially their application at the scene of action
