J. Gordon, 1995 Like Jane Austen and Henry James but also like Fyodor Dostoevsky and Simone Weil Iris Murdoch is a keen student of those egoistic obsessions that cloud our moral understanding In Iris Murdoch's Fables of Unselfing David J Gordon probes more deeply and comprehensively than any previous critic the intellectual energies and the ethical imperative of unselfing that inform her fiction Gordon contends that the term fable best describes the kind of novel Murdoch writes because in each a mythmaking purpose interacts with a commitment to realism shaping the erotic life of fictional characters into a spiritual pilgrimage on which they struggle more or less unsuccessfully to overcome the self centeredness that keeps them away from the Good The most original element in the fiction Gordon argues is not its striking modernization of Plato or its adaptations of nineteenth century influences but its intensely creative struggle with Freud In developing his analysis of her themes Gordon draws on Murdoch's work from throughout her forty year career showing how each novel grew out of its predecessors and in what ways each is original
