Aeropolitics Ruwantissa Indranath Ramya Abeyratne, 2014-05-14 The Air Future Burnet Hershey, 1943 The Great Accelerator Paul Virilio, 2012-06-11 On 10 September 2008 amid much fanfare the Great Collider run by CERN in Geneva was turned on The Collider was supposed to fire protons around a seventeen mile loop of tunnels causing them to crash into one another at close to the speed of light and break into even tinier particles Nine days later the Collider broke down and had to be switched off the accelerator temporarily silenced the reckless search for God's particle put on hold At the same time the speeded up markets of global finance with screens of multi coloured numbers designating the rapid flows of capital are suddenly thrown into confusion when news spreads that the great Titan of Wall Street Lehman Brothers has filed for bankruptcy Investors panic share prices plunge and the accelerated markets of global finance seize up In his latest book Paul Virilio the leading theorist of our obsession with technology speed and power rewrites The Book of Exodus but the exodus he talks about is no longer conducted in a single file of people headed for some possible Promised Land It is a closed circuit exodus within a cramped world where reduction in human stocks will suddenly look like the only solution to the lockdown of history Air Power in the Age of Total War John D. Buckley, 1999 A fascinating study of the changing military role of air power in the twentieth century this book examines the sensational impact of the Great War the pioneering work of air power theorists and visionaries in the interwar period the air arms race the Second World War in Europe and the Far East and finally the post war period Aviation & the Role of Government Harry W. Lawrence, 2021 Cold War Tech War Randall Whitcomb, 2008 This book explores the geo political technical and economic aspects of the Avro Canada story Author Randall Whitcomb reveals for the first time anywhere several exciting design proposals of the Avro company while putting the company and its technology into an international context Global intelligence angles are explored from pre WW II through the Cold War period Focus is on bi lateral issues with the Americans with some pertinent American statesmen and industrialists receiving special attention for their roles in issues at the heart of our story Recently released official information on the Avro C 102 Jetliner and CF 105 Arrow present their cancellations in a new light Over a half Century of deception by various governments intelligence agencies and individuals is documented and given relevance in view of today's geo political milieu As in the author's first book Avro's engineering is shown to have been visionary and still inspiring in the 21st Century Aviation and the Role of Government Harry Lawrence, 2004-12-31 The Rise of American Air Power Michael S. Sherry, 2006 The End of an Era James T. West, 2001-05-24 The End of an Era was written shortly after my retirement from Lockheed I felt strongly about the events during the L 1011 years The demise of the program left me without a job I guess that in some ways I resented that I wanted to blame the programs failure on somebody My first draft did just that I did point fingers I wrote about what I felt was incompetence Luckily I threw my first version out My next version began with reciting the facts as I knew them I had been there when decisions were made I had been a part of the management team Or maybe I hadn't Dan Haughton ran the show He frequently shuffled people in and out of the program In some sense I felt like an observer I stood to the side as this went on Everything about Lockheed was attuned to DOD business Lockheed was at the forefront of technical advances We knew how to fly faster higher and with the largest payload We knew little if anything about commercial business Don't get me wrong we knew how to design and build a commercial airplane We just didn't know how to relate that to customers and customer satisfaction Airlines bought the L 1011 because it was the best one out there and in spite of Lockheed My original title was My Story of the L 1011 It wasn't until I read that first complete manuscript that I realized I was talking about the end of an era Lockheed and corporate America were experiencing the birth of the modern manager the MBA The manager of the engineering division didn't need to know engineering he had an MBA The lack of commercial experience the exodus of the knowledgeable manager and the birth of the MBA with his network spelled nothing but disaster I have been criticized for ignoring the engineering aspects of the L 1011 The strongest criticism is that I missed the boat I didn't cite the RB211's failure Rolls Royce's inability to achieve the necessary thrust was the downfall of the L 1011 Rolls Royce failed went bankrupt but Lockheed management failed in being ill prepared for the event Dan Haughton rolled the dice and put the program at risk of the Roll Royce failure In the early stages of the plane's development Dan eliminated the ability to fly with a GE or Pratt engine Sure it saved money but it also put the program completely at risk of Rolls performance The failure of Rolls Royce wasn't the cause nor was the man who picked the engine Rolls Royce offered the best deal the best engine We could evaluate the design and engineering but we were novices at international contracting All of the price and payment clauses went out the window They were as real as the magicians deck of cards We were used to being at the edge of technology Our country doesn't have the fastest and best in the air by being timid What's a common thread of this effort Delays budget overruns redesigns etc A commercial plane doesn't stretch the technical boundary it's tried and true After everything that happened the fault has to lie with management not one person in management but management At Lockheed everyone wanted a seat at the table Those at the table were different They looked around and connected with each other because of the ivy league school they graduated from They were the officers and deserved special treatment They were part of the network It's much like school You quickly learn that classroom performance has a big influence on your grade It starts in the first grade and continues well into university It was prevalent at Lockheed The problem was that in school you had the teacher correcting and demanding proof At Lockheed rarely was evidence demanded Rarely did management question the facts As the qualified and experienced retired senior management had little feedback The up and comer was the one first at the meeting and with a chair at the table No one asked for his qualifications or where were the facts A salesman would go on and on as to how hard it was He added up the many days he was out of the country No one asked him to name someone at the airline that he knew Bottom line read the book It's a part of history and a lesson in Management 101 Skygods Robert L. Gandt, 1995 In 1966 Pan Am had reached the zenith of its wealth and influence

Under aviation pioneer Juan Trippe the airline had risen from the muddy back waters of Latin America to a place of preeminence in world commerce Told from points of view of airmen and executives Skygods gives the inside story on the demise of the world s most experienced airlines
