Methodological issues in accounting research Zahirul Hoque, 2018-03-26. What is my theory? How do I choose a theory? Why and how should I employ a particular method for collecting the empirical data? These basic questions concern everyone involved in research. A research study can be a voyage of discovering or choice of theoretical perspective as well as gathering empirics or facts on a problem or situation. This book provides a good guideline as to why and how to choose a particular theory or method to study an organisational phenomenon such as accounting. All the chapters provide both retrospective and contemporary views by scholars in the field. Each chapter documents the latest developments and research in accounting and control systems and provides valuable insights into methodological perspectives in accounting research. This second edition has also introduced a number of new chapters covering strategy management, control as practice, grounded theory approach, institutional logic and rhetoric, social interaction theory, actor network theory and practice theory. The book is primarily intended for research students and academic researchers. It can also be used for undergraduate Honours course as well as postgraduate accounting and business methodology courses. Research organisations and consulting firms in accounting and business fields may also find this book useful. The principal aims of this second edition are 1 to update the chapters previously published in 2006 and 2 to introduce new chapters documenting recent developments in accounting research.

Social Research in Health and Illness Constantinos N. Phellas, Costas S.

Constantinou, 2017-08-15. Social Research in Health and Illness offers a theoretically informed guide to practising the key social research methods in investigating health and illness. Examining both methods and methodology, the authors explore the importance of selecting the appropriate research method for the project in question, demonstrating that researchers do not simply apply a set of neutral techniques to the issues that they investigate but take part in a dynamic reflective engagement with social and cultural worlds in a process of continual learning. With its application of a variety of research methods to concrete cases this book provides a sociology of specific health conditions thus rendering them more understandable whilst clarifying the nature of research concepts approaches methods and methodologies by demonstrating their use in real life settings. Drawing on case studies involving a range of health conditions including mental illness HIV diabetes kidney disease Alzheimer's disease heart disease breast cancer thalassaemia and multiple sclerosis the authors examine a range of methodological issues exploring the use of focus groups observation data archives interviews and surveys while also considering questions of ethics and analysis. A comprehensive and practical examination of research methods in use in a defined field of social scientific enquiry this volume is essential reading for scholars graduate students and healthcare professionals with interests in conducting qualitative and quantitative research in the fields of health and medicine.

Age and Work Hannes Zacher, Cort W. Rudolph, 2022-01-16 The edited volume Age and Work Advances in Theory Methods and Practice presents a systematic collection of key advances in theory methods and practice regarding aging and work. This cutting edge collection breaks new ground by developing novel and useful theory explaining underutilized but important methodological approaches and suggesting original practical applications of emerging research topics. The book begins with a prologue by the World Health Organization's unit head for aging and health an introduction on the topic by the editors and an overview of past current and future workforce age trends. Subsequently the first main section outlines theoretical advances regarding alternative age constructs e.g. subjective age intersectionality of age with gender and social class, paradoxical age related actions generational identity and integration of lifespan theories. The second section presents methodological advances regarding behavioral assessment age at the team and organizational levels longitudinal and diary methods experiments and interventions qualitative methods and the use of archival data. The third section covers practical advances regarding age and job crafting knowledge exchange the work nonwork interface healthy aging and absenteeism and presenteeism and organizational meta strategies for younger and older workers. The book concludes with an epilogue by an eminent scholar in age and work. Written in a scientific yet accessible manner the book offers a valuable resource for undergraduate and graduate students academics in the fields of psychology and business as well as practitioners working in the areas of human resource management and organizational development.

Leadership Approaches to Negotiate Challenges in a Changing Education Landscape Leentjie van Jaarsveld, Kobus Mentz, Charl C. Wolhuter, 2020-12-31 The argumentative point of departure of this scholarly book is the common conviction of specialists in the field of education in South Africa that the national education system is not at a satisfactory level in both the academic and the public discourse. Such allegations are made and frequently stronger adjectives than non satisfactory are used. Results of international test series in which South Africa has participated such as the 2015 TIMSS tests confirm the negative verdicts found in the public and scholarly discourse. This book aims to argue that although the lack of performance could be attributed to a multiplicity of factors one factor that can make a difference in the achievement levels obtained by learners in schools is leadership. The book demonstrates that a particular problem of both the scholarly and the public discourse on education in South Africa is an overtone of defeatism or resignation blaming all ills in the education system and educational institutions on historical legacies and or contextual factors such as socio economic deprivation in the catchment areas of schools or poor resources and infrastructure. This collected work was inspired by a recently published spate of articles on top performing schools including top performing schools in rural communities in which it was demonstrated that good leadership can overcome such contextual and other challenges. The book unpacks the issue of leadership in South African schools from a variety of perspectives thus contributing to the development of the scholarly discourse on Educational Leadership in South Africa. The target audience of the book is scholars of Educational Leadership. The research reported in the chapters draw on a wide range of methodologies including empirical survey research questionnaires and interviews critical literature surveys and the comparative method.
