Papers presented at symposia held during the association s annual meetings Ecosystem Dynamics in a Polar Desert John Charles Priscu,1998 Ecology of Desert Organisms Gideon Louw,Mary Seely,1982 In this book the authors consider the ecology of desert organisms They have illustrated the principles involved with a selection of interesting examples from a wide body of research and from their own experience In their study they have given equal emphasis to physiological ecology and population ecology They have looked both at the way organisms avoid the extremes of the desert environment and at adaptations in their morphology physiology and behaviour which make them better able to tolerate the unfavourable conditions Reproduction and the dynamics structure and evolution of desert communities are also discussed in detail and in the concluding chapter the authors consider the increasingly important role of man in shaping the desert environment The book provides a broad synthesis of the major principles of ecology and with its balance between the botanical and zoological aspects of the subject it will be of value to life scientists in general Students wishing to broaden their knowledge of ecology as well as the reader interested in desert biology will find here a wealth of fascinating material in a clear and concise form
