Aboriginal Convicts Australian Khoisan And Maori Exiles:

Aboriginal Convicts Kristyn Harman, 2012 Revealing the forgotten stories of Aboriginal convicts this book describes how they lived labored were punished and died Profiling several of the 130 Aboriginal convicts who were transported to and within the Australian penal colonies this collection features the journeys of Aboriginal warriors Bulldog and Musquito Maori warrior Hohepa Te Umuroa and Khoisan soldier Booy Piet

A Global History of Convicts and Penal Colonies Clare Anderson, 2018-05-17 Between 1415 when the Portuguese first used convicts for colonization purposes in the North African enclave of Ceuta to the 1960s and the dissolution of Stalin's gulags global powers including the Spanish Dutch Portuguese British Russians Chinese and Japanese transported millions of convicts to forts penal settlements and penal colonies all over the world A Global History of Convicts and Penal Colonies builds on specific regional archives and literatures to write the first global history of penal transportation The essays explore the idea of penal transportation as an engine of global change in which political repression and forced labour combined to produce long term impacts on economy society and identity They investigate the varied and interconnected routes convicts took to penal sites across the world and the relationship of these convict flows to other forms of punishment unfree labour military service and indigenous incarceration They also explore the lived worlds of convicts including work culture religion and intimacy and convict experience and agency

Pākehā Settlements in a Māori World Ian Smith, 2020-01-28 Pākehā Settlements in a Māori World offers a vivid account of early European experience in these islands through material evidence offered by the archaeological record As European exploration in the 1770s gave way to sealing whaling and timber felling Pākehā visitors first became sojourners in small remote camps then settlers scattered around the coast Over time mission stations were established alongside farms businesses and industries and eventually towns and government centres Through these decades a small but growing Pākehā population lived within and alongside a Māori world often interacting closely This phase drew to a close in the 1850s as the numbers of Pākehā began to exceed the Māori population and the wars of the 1860s brought brutal transformation to the emerging society and its economy Archaeologist Ian Smith tells the story of adaptation change and continuity as two vastly different cultures learned to inhabit the same country From the scant physical signs of first contact to the wealth of detail about daily life in established settlements archaeological evidence amplifies the historical narrative Glimpses of a world in the midst of turbulent change abound in this richly illustrated book As the visual narrative makes clear archaeology brings history into the present making the past visible in the landscape around us and enabling an understanding of complex histories in the places we inhabit

Imperial Crime and Punishment Emma D. Watkins, Eleanor Bland, 2025-10-06 Seeking to redress the traditional focus of historical criminology on the West and Global North Imperial Crime and Punishment brings a fresh perspective to this burgeoning field by drawing instead on imperial contexts

Convicts Clare Anderson, 2022-01-13 A new global history perspective on the relationship between convict mobility and governance nation building imperial expansion and knowledge formation Southern Criminology Kerry Carrington, Russell Hogg, John Scott, Máximo Sozzo, Reece Walters, 2018-09-18 Criminology has focused mainly on problems of crime and violence in the large population centres of the Global North to the exclusion of the global countryside peripheries and antipodes Southern criminology is an innovative new approach that seeks to correct this bias This book turns the origin stories of criminology which simply assumed a global universality on their head It draws on a range of case studies to illustrate this point tracing criminology's long fascination with dangerous masculinities back to Lombroso's theory of atavism itself based on an orientalist interpretation of men of colour from the Global South uncovering criminology's colonial legacy perhaps best exemplified by the over representation of Indigenous peoples in settler societies drawn into the criminal justice system analysing the ways in which the sociology of punishment literature has also been based on Northern theories which assume that forms of penalty roll out from the Global North to the rest of the world and making the case that the harmful effects of eco crimes and global warming are impacting more significantly on the Global South The book also explores how the coloniality of gender shapes patterns of violence in the Global South Southern criminology is not a new sub discipline within criminology but rather a journey toward cognitive justice It promotes a perspective that aims to invent methods and concepts that bridge global divides and enhance the democratisation of knowledge more befitting of global criminology in the twenty first century The BP Exhibition Gaye Sculthorpe, 2015 Published to accompany the first major UK exhibition on Indigenous Australia this ground breaking new publication explores the profound impact and legacy of colonialism the nature of collecting and the changing meaning of objects now in the collection of the British Museum The encounters between Indigenous peoples and colonists were complex and nuanced and contemporary Australian society is still dealing with this legacy trying to transform or reconcile different worldviews Transported, in Place of Death Christopher Sweeney, 1981 Illustrated account of convict life includes discussion of the prejudice towards and harsh treatment of Aboriginal people Convicts and Colonial Society 1788-1853 Lloyd Evans, Paul Nicholls, 1976 The Fatal Shore Robert Hughes, 1996 The Fatal Shore reveals the full extent of Australia's role as the concentration camp of Georgian England and in doing so has set new standards in the writing of narrative history
